OUTLINE PLANS FOR NEW UNION

Plans for organization of a citrus packing house workers' union in Orange county, under sponsorship of the American Federation of Labor, were completed last night at a meeting of workers representing the various packing houses in the county.

Charter Received Soon

According to Norris Stone, district organizer for the A. F. of L. in Orange county, organization of the union will get under way immediately upon receipt of the charter.

Stone is responsible for having secured permission to organize packing house workers in Orange county under sponsorship of the A. F. of L. Following the citrus strike of last year he applied to William Green, president of the federation, for a charter, which was granted.

Stone said today that decision to organize packing house workers was reached after a group of Salinas vegetable workers sent radical agitators here last year for the purpose of organizing citrus workers. At that time the Citrus Workers' club was organized to combat activities of the radical group.

To Combat Radicals

He said that organization of the union is planned for the purpose of preventing further outbreaks similar to the one that marked last year's harvest of the crop. Stone said that any difficulties the newly authorized union may have with employers will be settled peacefully around a conference table and not through strikes. Should the radical element attempt to halt the harvest next year, he said, the union will cooperate with growers in the crop harvest.

WAR HORSES, MULE BACK IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Three old war horses and a one-eyed mule came back to England today from the Belgian World War battlefields to spend the rest of their lives munching apples and drinking English beer mixed with bran.

They were the only ones out of a contingent of 50 able to make the trip on funds supplied by Our Dumb Friends' league. The others were destroyed.

The animals, all of which had stirring war records, were located in Belgium, where they were being worked every day despite their age.

The mule came from a mine, where he right eye had been put out so he would always pull to the left. He was said to be nearly 40 years old.

The horses were estimated to be 30 years old.

Settlement Of Coast Ship Strike Near

PAY BOOSTS GRANTED BY OPERATORS

Ratification Meeting of Unions Scheduled For Next Monday Night

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—(UP)—The Pacific coast maritime strike will be ended "within a few days," Thomas G. Plant, chairman of the coast committee of shipowners, predicted today as disputants in the 72-day waterfront warfare continued a successful drive to eliminate controversies.

New Agreements

Issues that once seemed "insurmountable" apparently were dissolving under a determined peace campaign reflected in formulation of new agreements between the seven striking unions and the employers.

"The shipowners are gratified by these speedy and definite moves for almost immediate termination of the strike," Plant said.

"Continued sincere effort, the same spirit of fairness which has characterized negotiations the last several days can only mean that peace is near," he said. Plant, usually confident that normal shipping in the Pacific coast ports will be resumed during January.

A long step toward peace was taken yesterday when the Masters', Mates' and Pilots' association reached a tentative agreement with the operators of steam schooners, who represent about one-third of the shipowners.

Choose Own Captains

The troublesome preferential hiring question was disposed of with a compromise proposal under which the shipowners will choose their own captains and the union will give preference in employing mates for the vessels.

The schooner men granted captains $20 wage increases, while mates were given raises of $15.

Even more significant was

FEAR FOR LIFE OF TACOMA BOY

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 9.—(UP)—A heavy snow storm today hampered negotiations for return of 10-year-old Charles Mattson, kidnapped from his home 13 days ago for $28,000 ransom.

The storm increased fears for the life of the boy, son of Dr. and Mrs. William W. Mattson. He was scolded and recovering from a cold the night of the kidnapping.

It was doubted the kidnaper, known only as "Tim," as the ransom note was signed, would go out in the three-inch snow to meet Dr. Mattson, who has the money ready for him, and leave automobile tire tracks or footprints through which he might be traced.

But as the second week of the case drew to a close without any indication the kidnaper intended to negotiate for the boy's safe return, others feared the snow might be covering a shallow grave in the woods holding the boy's body.

Since federal agents staged a surprise raid early yesterday, which apparently netted them nothing, and Dr. Mattson inserted a new contact advertisement in the kidnaping hijackers and impostors were trying to "muscle in" and collect the ransom, there have been no developments.

There were no visitors at the Mattson home during the night and no lights burned in the big house.

BANDIT GETS $700 FROM BANK IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—(UP)—A bandit thrust a note demanding money through the wicket at a teller of a Citizens' bank branch today and escaped with $700 before other employees and customers were aware the place was robbed.

The bandit, about 35 and well-dressed, stepped up to Teller Harold Count's window and handed him a note reading:

"You are covered. Give me all the $5s, $50s, and $100s and hurry."

He kept his gun concealed while Counts shoved the money through the window. The bandit walked leisurely out, and drove off.

Trotsky And Wife Arrive At Tampico

TAMPICO, Mex., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Leon Trotsky predicted upon his arrival in Mexico today that "there is a 75 per cent chance" war will break out in Europe soon. The famous Russian exile talked to newspapermen shortly after disembarking on the Norwegian freighter Ruth which brought him here from Oslo.

Health Improved

The famous Bolshevik looked fit and said he and his wife had a "perfect crossing" during which his health improved greatly. He came off the Ruth wearing a suit with grey knickerbockers.

Senora Frida Rivera, wife of the Mexican muralist, Diego Rivera, greeted the Trotskys on the dock. It was understood President Cardenas had arranged to have them taken to an unnamed retreat by automobile, airplane or private railroad car, depending upon the exile's pleasure.

"My plans are vague," he said. "Sometime I would like to visit New York again."

Trotsky spoke slowly and calmly in French, referring frequently to a prepared statement which was written in Russian.

Norway Criticized

He expressed admiration for the Norwegian people, but criticized their government for internment of his wife under a special law passed to deal with his case. He said he "deeply appreciated" the Mexicans' hospitality.

On the freighter Ruth he was in the custody of Jonas Lie, Norwegian police official. The government had refused to permit him to reply to numerous wireless messages received en route from United States news services.

GERMANS DENY MOROCCO PLANS

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Government spokesmen said today there was no basis for French anxiety over alleged German penetration into Morocco.

Deny Barracks Built

Reliable private sources tended to strengthen a propaganda ministry denial that German troops were landing in Morocco, or that German barracks were being erected there.

Well-informed persons said not more than 1000 German civilians were in Spanish Morocco or more than "a few hundred" in French Morocco. It was said a "hand-full" of Germans was in the Spanish Foreign legion in Morocco.

Nazi quarters called the French reports a maneuver to cramp Germany's colonial campaign and depicted the view that Germany was trying to secure a vital grip in Spanish Morocco as the basis for colonial claims elsewhere.

Supplies Sent Rebels

Best informed private sources do not deny that German firms soon after the outbreak of the civil war commenced drawing quantities of sorely needed copper, iron, mercury and nickel from Spanish Morocco mines where Gen. Francisco Franco, nationalist leader, granted them concessions.

Neither do they deny that a "small group" of German volunteers and some equipment Germany said France were transported to Spain by way of Morocco during the first two weeks of the rebellion.

But they assert all subsequent detachments of German volunteers had landed directly in Spain rather than by way of Morocco or the Balearic islands—as it is understood here was the case with some Italian detachments.

REVEAL BULLETS IN BODY OF DIPLOMAT

BRUSSELS, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Exhumation near Madrid of the body of Baron Jacques De Borchgrave, first secretary of the Belgian embassy, revealed three bullet wounds, officials said today.

One shot was in his leg, another in his back, and one behind his ear at close range. The first two shots, fired at some distance, support the theory that the diplomat was assassinated, it was said officially.

An inquiry into Borchgrave's death is being continued, in view of the Belgian government's demand for an apology and a $35,000 cash indemnity.

The body was expected to be placed aboard a French warship Sunday for conveyance to Belgium with full military honors.

Leon Trotsky, exiled Bolshevik leader, who arrived in Mexico today from Norway, where he has been living.

STUDENTS MAY STAGE STRIKE

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 9.—(UP)—A student strike beamed by the bold oratory of Gov. Philip F. La Follette generated a sit-down protest movement today as Dr. Glenn Frank charged again that a "political firing squad" removed him as president of the University of Wisconsin.

"If we can get 50 or 100 others to join us, we'll take over one of the bigger classrooms and start a sit-down strike next week," said Harry Demuth, student from Evanston, Ill.

Sentiment Sounded

Demuth and his aides sounded campus sentiment as most of 2,000 strikers who invaded La Follette's office to demand an explanation of Frank's dismissal agreed that continuance of their strike would be useless.

La Follette, accused by Frank and his supporters of dictating the action through the 11 regents he appointed, said he would again ask President James Conant of Harvard university to study the problem of freeing the state university from suspicion of political control.

Invitation Declined

He asked Conant at that time to investigate the matter with a supreme court justice and another impartial observer. Conant declined the invitation, adding that the real issue was the competence of the regents to make decisions free from political prejudice, and pointing out that administrative affairs such as the presidency were distinctly within the regents' jurisdiction.

La Follette emphasized this point when 500 students broke up his press conference and under the guard of Madison police were led to the state assembly chambers to hear his explanation. He would be false to his oath of office, La Follette said, if he did not interest himself in university administration affairs.

Students Mobilized

The students were mobilized by La Follette's explanation, although they continued their cheering for Frank as they returned to the campus.

The second investigation is expected by the state legislature meeting here next week. Political opponents have openly decried La Follette's "meddling" in university affairs.

BILL BANS FLAGS MADE BY JAPANESE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Rep. John M. Costello, D. Calif., sought today to end the irony of "Made in Japan" labels on American flags.

He introduced a bill making it illegal to import American flags manufactured in foreign countries, he said, "as a matter of personal interest," after he and the other members of the Native Sons of the Golden West had noticed imported American flags, mostly small ones, used as dinner table decorations in California.

"It seemed to us fitting that American flags be made in America," he said.

DRUG PEDDLER KILLED

PEIPING, Jan. 9.—(UP)—First victim of the new law providing the death penalty for peddlers and addicts of narcotic drugs was Lu Loh-sin, a peddler.

He was seized at the city gates when soldiers found several packets of narcotics on his person. Two soldiers forced him to kneel, shot him in the back of the head with a pistol, then they dumped his body into a waiting coffin.

TAX LOSSES IN OIL TOLD BY SLEEPER

Plans of State Officials For Drilling Tidelands at H. B. Criticized

The present royalty arrangement for whippstock oil drilling into the state's tideland pool at Huntington Beach, whereby the state has collected $665,826 within a year, has been at the expense of $91,578.71 in tax losses to Orange county and Huntington Beach city.

And if the state legislature should enact a measure providing for exclusive drilling of the tideland pool by the state itself, the county and city losses would be several times the present amount annually, according to County Assessor James Sleeper.

Fair Deal Demanded

Criticizing the present and proposed plan of developing the pool, Assessor Sleeper declared that citizens of the county and city should instruct their representatives in the state legislature to "demand a fair deal for Orange county in this oil controversy."

Pointing out that tideland drilling had been carried on for years in Santa Barbara and Ventura counties, on a basis of only 5 or 6 per cent royalty payments, as compared to the much higher royalties here, and that no plan of state drilling is proposed for the other counties, Sleeper caustically inquired: "Why make fish of one county and flesh of another?"

Figures Cited

He issued figures showing that from March 1, 1935, to March 1, 1936, the Huntington Beach field produced 5,766,899 barrels of oil, of which the state collected $84,040 barrels as royalty, represented by $484,908 in cash; gas produced was $307,649, of which $59,973 was paid the state; gasoline produced was $629,362.34, of which $120,943 was paid the state, making state royalties total $65,326, upon which the county and city could not levy a tax, because it was state property.

If the state exclusively drilled, all the other production of the field, now taxed, would be exempt from local taxes, as would the oil derricks and other drilling equipment now being taxed by city and county, said Sleeper.

$91,578 Tax Loss

The loss to the city and county on the state royalties for the year cited amounted to $43,379.41 to the county government and schools, and $48,199.39 to Huntington Beach city, making a total of $91,578.71.

Sleeper also took occasion to cast doubt upon the estimate of 500 million barrels as the Huntington Beach tideland pool capacity. State officials, he said, have expressed the view that the pool probably contains no more than 90 million barrels. This, he said, is supported by statistics on the total oil production of Orange county in the 34 years from 1897 to 1932, which amounted to 515,238,625 barrels of oil, $34,018,375 in gas.

Opposition to Budget Looms

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Congressional opposition to at least three parts of President Roosevelt's budget plans for the 1938 fiscal year took shape today.

Leaders See Tests

Legislative leaders foresaw tests of the president's control over both houses in: (1) The deficiency and regular relief appropriations; (2) The $1,000,000,000 national defense appropriation; (3) His government reorganization plans.

The general tone of reaction to his budget message looking toward an early budget balance was favorable to the broad principles of economy.

An early showdown was certain on the $799,000,000 to be sought to finance relief from February 1 to June 30. Protests against "skimping" developed in both houses. The house appropriations committee moved for early hearings on the emergency relief fund.

Seek To Double Fund

Demands for "earmarking" the fund were made by Sen. Bennett Champ Clark, D. Mo., to curb administration blanket control. House third party members served notice they would battle to double the fund.

War Budget Is Boosted By Italians

ROME, Jan. 9.—(UP)—The cabinet approved higher military appropriations in the 1937-1938 budget at a meeting today.

The major items in the budget include $131,115,115 for the war ministry, $94,348,800 for the navy, $65,812,500 for aviation, $84,977,100 for colonies and $3,106,350 for press and propaganda.

Revenue was estimated at $1,084,379,400 and expenditure at $1,251,437,350, thus forecasting a deficit of $167,058,450.

The increase in military expenditure was shown by comparison with the 1936-1937 budget, in which the appropriations included $120,621,150 for the war ministry and $81,291,600 for the navy.

STORM CAUSES MANY DEATHS

(By UNITED PRESS)

Snow, sleet and mist which left the western half of the United States with broken communication lines, clogged, ice-covered highways and impaired transportation, moved eastward today. At least 11 deaths were attributable to the storms. Suffering among the poor was intensified.

More Snow Predicted

The weather bureau predicted more snow for the entire central states area next week.

Five deaths occurred in Utah and Nevada as those states dug out from a severe blizzard.

Snow and cold were blamed for two railroad accidents in Missouri which caused two deaths. Service on some branch lines of the Washash was abandoned with division points out of touch with line points because of broken lines. Transcontinental trains through Kansas City were 30 minutes to two and a half hours late.

Motorists Warned

Motorists were warned to keep off state highways in Missouri. Those not blocked by sheet-covered snow, frozen so hard it had to be chopped loose, were hazardous with ice. Drifts four and five feet deep blocked roads in northwestern Iowa and southern Minnesota. Many Nebraska roads were similarly impassable. Sleet broke power lines in southern Illinois and forced some factories to close.

High temperatures in Ohio were ended today with the mercury tumbling to the freezing point. In the southwest, temperatures dipped. Tulsa reported heavy sleet and 12 above zero. In the Oklahoma and Texas panhandles, it was below zero and many points reported sleet impeded traffic.

Cold in Texas

Unusually low temperatures were common throughout Texas, where four deaths were attributed to the cold. Citrus growers in the Lower Rio Grande valleys feared a damaging freeze tonight. Telephone company damage was estimated at $2,000,000. Temperatures included 42 at Brownsville, 19 at Dallas and Fort Worth, and 26 at El Paso. A freezing mist fell over the northern half of the state, glazing highways and coating windshields.

It was 24 below zero at Sterling, Colo., and 6 below at Denver. In the Pacific Northwest, snow fell over all of Washington and Oregon. The weather bureau said it would continue to fall today, followed tomorrow by clear and cold weather.

It was 18 in Fresno this morning the coldest day in the San Joaquin valley since 1932. Stockton, Bakersfield and Lindsay were a few degrees warmer. Smudging was general.

MOORE PREDICTS PEACE IN EUROPE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—An outbreak of war in Europe at this time would be "an adventure in suicide," E. Walton Moore, acting secretary of state said today.

Moore, in answer to inquiries concerning Moroccan developments in the Spanish civil war, said he was confident the leading European nations would not go to war at this time as a result of the situation in Spain.

Moore repeated his previous voiced optimism that a pacific way out of the present European crisis would be found.

"I do not think the reports coming in from Europe should cause undue alarm," Moore said. "I decline to believe that a war involving the leading European nations is about to occur."

Simultaneous with the issuance of Moore's statement, the state department announced it had received renewed assurances from the Mexican government that no war materials of American origin would be permitted to leave Mexico for Spain.

HEADS SERVICE

Frank J. Wilson, who brought about the conviction of Al Capone, has been named the new head of the United States Secret Service. He succeeds retiring William H. Moran.

A. F. OF L. HITS STRIKE OF CIO

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(UP)—The metal trade department of the American Federation of Labor today ordered its workers in strike-locked General Motors plants to go back to work.

A similar stand is being taken by the federation building trades department, thus aligning two powerful federation units against the wide-scale auto unionization drive of John L. Lewis' committee for Industrial organization, which is sponsoring the auto drive.

John P. Frey, president of the department, announced he had instructed workers falling within his jurisdiction to seek such work with General Motors as they can during the walk-out conducted by the C.I.O.

"The metal trades unions will not work with strike breakers under any circumstances," he said.

NEGOTIATIONS IN AUTO STRIKE END IN FAILURE

DETROIT, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Attempts to start negotiations on the General Motors strike have failed, Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile workers, said today in a letter to Gov. Frank Murphy, mediator.

Thanking Murphy for his efforts as mediator, Martin said the failure of negotiations as "due to the rejection by General Motors of all reasonable proposals."

Murphy said he would remain as mediator.

"Both sides have done their best," he added. "General Motors corporation's representatives have been fair and have indicated their desire to co-operate. Mr. Martin and all the labor leaders, earnestly and reasonably have pressed their case. I believe that both sides want to work out a settlement and I believe this can and should be done."

REBEL PLANES BOMB CAPITAL

MADRID, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Fourteen rebel tri-motored bombing airplanes today dropped more than 20 high explosive bombs in the University City area of Madrid.

The bombers were escorted by a large number of fast pursuit planes which engaged loyalist defenders who rose to drive off the bombers.

Embassies Damaged

Today's bombing follows a terrible air attack yesterday on the Madrid "safety zone" in which the British and German embassies were struck, and the American embassy shaken by blasts which killed five persons, and injured two, including a British diplomat. Insurgents, attempting to advance in the University City area under cover of darkness last night, were blasted back by government heavy artillery which kept up a continuous barrage throughout the night.

The insurgents were trying to relieve a small detachment of their troops, besieged for several weeks in the hospital clinic.

Attache Escapes Death

Capt. Edward C. Lance, British military attache, and Mrs. Angela Norris narrowly escaped death in yesterday's bombing of the British embassy. Both were injured when one of the bombs, exploding on the roof, sent the ceiling crashing down on their heads.

The British communication to the Salamanca government protests the violation of the "safety zone" in which the British embassy buildings are situated and which Gen. Francisco Franco, insurgent commander, undertook to respect.

NEW LOW IS RECORDED IN FRUIT BELT

Temperatures Are Expected To Drop Again Tonight; Smudge Pots Lighted

'Tis an ill wind that blows nobody good.

Orange county's $20,000,000 citrus industry was saved from staggering frost damages last night when a desert wind swept through the north and east portions of the county, preventing a settling down of a killing frost.

Little Damage Reported

Agricultural Commissioner Dixon on Tubbs said today that while there was a little damage done to groves in the north and extreme southern sections of the county, where there were no smudge pots, the crop, generally, had been saved.

Temperatures dropped in the county to a new low but the desert wind, striking below Placentia, saved groves in Yorba Linda, Anaheim, Garden Grove, Villa Park, Orange, Olive, Tustin and a portion of the Santa Ana district.

Despite the wind, growers fired up their smudge pots in practically every section of the county and a dark cloud of smoke hung over the area until a late hour this morning.

Cold Again Tonight

Tubbs said this morning that the latest weather forecast anticipated temperatures tonight almost as low as that experienced last night, but if the wind drops during the day, allowing the sun to raise temperatures in the groves, and rises again tonight, the industry will be safe for another 24 hours.

The lowest recorded temperature, 24 degrees, was in La Habra. Growers in that area, however, kept grove temperatures up by 25 or 27 degrees through smudging and heat radiating from the smudge pots helped to prevent losses.

In the Placentia-Yorba Linda district the lowest temperature was 23.1-2 degrees, recorded between 7 and 7:30 a. m. today. In the Villa Park district where a brisk wind blew all night the mercury in government thermometers ranged from 32 to 33 degrees and in Santa Ana Canyon 31 degrees was the lowest recorded.

27 Degrees At Tustin

In Orange the lowest temperature of 24 degrees was recorded at 7 o'clock this morning and at Garden Grove the lowest was 31-2.

degrees. The lowest fruit temperature in this area averaged 29 degrees in the district. In Tustin the lowest recording was 27 degrees.

In the West Orange-Thorp district the lowest recording was 27 degrees, but on Endicott avenue, south of West Orange-Thorp the mercury dropped to 25 degrees at 1 a. m. and again at 5 a. m. South of Fullerton the lowest recorded temperature was 26 1/2 for three minutes at 7:30 a. m. to day.

According to a report received by The Register, the Santa Ana river, at the Orange crossing, was frozen this morning.

$100,000,000 FRUIT CROP SAVED FROM DAMAGE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Southern California shivers today in the worst freeze in 15 years.

The $100,000,000 citrus crop apparently escaped serious damage from temperatures which tumbled to the low 20's in the orchard belt and to 10 degrees at Mt. Wilson.

Preliminary surveys indicated orchard heaters saved all but unprotected fruit in exposed places.

Ice Causes Crashes
It was below 30 degrees, unofficially, in Los Angeles, and 28 was recorded in Hollywood. Ice streets caused traffic crashes.

The weather bureau recorded 32 degrees at 6:20 a. m., lowest since the "big freeze" of 1922 when the temperature dropped to 31. All-time low for the city was 25 degrees, in 1915.

In the citrus belt, the temperature dropped to as low as 17 degrees, three below the danger point for the orchard crop.

An estimated 32,400,000 gallons of oil were burned by growers, frantically heating their orchards against the frost which left lawns and roof-tops white.

Fruit Dried Black

A huge cloud of "smudge" from the oil burners darkened the skies. The sun rose pale yellow. In many groves the fruit was dyed black. It was the heaviest smudging in 15 years.

Snow fell on the Chocolate mountains only 25 miles from El Centro near the Mexican border. Blythe, desert town near the Nevada line, had its first snowfall in 40 years.

Lowest temperature outside the mountain districts was Palmdale, on the Mojave desert, with 17 degrees. Thermometers in Hollywood recorded 28 degrees.

San Diego, with 36 degrees, had its coldest day since January 24, 1922. El Cajon reported 27 and Escondido 26.

In other sections the temperatures were: Burbank, 30; Corona, 31; Culver City, 28; Imperial, 22; Long Beach, 33; San Pedro, 34; Riverside, 29; San Fernando, 32; Santa Ana, 31; Santa Barbara, 26.

Bad Luck Still Hounds Ambers; Judge Boots One

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Even with a crown on his head, Lou Ambers, of Herkimer, N. Y., can't shake the unlucky omen which attached itself to him as a kid.

Last September he won the lightweight title from Tony Canzone. But his luck as a champion was worse than as a contender. Last night, in Madison Square Garden, Ambers and Enrico Venturi, of Italy, fought 10 furious rounds, and the referee and two judges called it a draw.

Ambers had Venturi down for no count in the second, outpunched him most of the route and had the Italian's face hacked and bleeding at the final bell. The referee, Art McGovern, gave three rounds to Ambers, two to Venturi and called five even and yet voted for a draw. Judge Charles Lynch voted for Ambers, but the other judge called it a draw.

Ambers' record since winning the title is: Lost 2, won 1, draw 1. He was beaten by Eddie Cool and Jimmy McLarnin and stopped "Stumpy" Jacobs.

As a kid, someone dropped a firecracker down his back and it exploded leaving a scar as big as a watermelon across his shoulder blades. Two years ago he was heading for a title match and had his jaw broken. Last year he killed an opponent with a punch. These are only a few of the rotten breaks Luigi D'Ambrasio has had.

"Maybe I'm unlucky, I don't know," he said. "If they said it was a draw, I guess it was."

A crowd of 8,515 paid $15,886.21 to see last night's overweight non-title match. Ambers weighed 136, Venturi 138 1/2.

FIREMEN TO MEET CHILI BOWL TEAM

Fullerton's Firemen tangle with the powerful Los Angeles Chili Bowl nine at 2 p. m. tomorrow in a Southern California winter league game at Fullerton.

Leonard Karjalainen will start on the hill for the Firemen with Douglas Wheeler seeing duty in a relief capacity. Both Louie Neva and Joe Mene will see action in the pastures.

FIRE DESTROYS SCHOOL

SAN MATEO, Cal., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Fire swept through the Peninsula elementary school here early today, causing estimated damage of $75,000.

Cause of the fire was believed to have been a faulty furnace which had been left burning all night because of the cold weather.

VETERANS' SONS SEAT OFFICERS

Assisted by members of the G. A. R., C. F. Miller, commander of the California Pacific Department, Sons of Union Veterans, last night installed recently elected and appointed officers of the Santa Ana Camp of the organization.

Miller, who also was seated as an appointive officer of the camp, was assisted by Dr. Ralph R. Bennett, Huntington Park, as Guide and Frank Crouch, Pasadena, who served as Color Bearer. Dr. Barrett is National Patriotic Instructor for the organization.

Commander Campbell of Sodek West, G. A. R., was unable to attend the installation but the Grand Army of the Republic was represented by Comrades David Williams, Santa Ana, who arrived here recently from Pennsylvania, R. W. Wood and Orin Coltrin, members of Gordon Granger post, Orange and Hill of Watts, Comrades Williams, Woods and Hill assisted at the installation.

Special guests who attended the ceremony which was held in conjunction with the installation of officers for the Daughters of Union Veterans, were Mrs. Charlotte Turner, departmental secretary of the Auxiliary of the Sons of Union Veterans, and Lydia Perfield, Los Angeles, Council Member No. 1, for the Auxiliary.

Elective officers who were seated at the ceremony held in Modern Woodman hall were: Perry Groat, commander; Charles Cozad, senior vice commander; R. S. Thompson, junior vice commander and E. A. Bell, C. E. Brayton and Roy N. Pollock, members of the Camp Council.

Appointive officers installed were: J. R. Moore, secretary; E. J. Parker, treasurer; R. Earl Elliott, chaplain; C. E. Miller, patriotic instructor; C. E. Byarton, color bearer; W. L. Davis, guide and J. H. Mitchell, guide.

CUNNINGHAM RACES VENZKE IN K. C. 800

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Glen Cunningham of Kansas tries to win the third leg on the Grand Knight trophy tonight when he clashes with Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania in the 800-meter run of the Columbus council K. of C. track and field games.

It will be the Kansas' first start in the event since he set a world's outdoor record 1:49.7 last year at Stockholm after the Olympic games. Now studying for a doctor of philosophy degree at N. Y. U., Cunningham won the 800 at last year's K. C. meet in 1:55.2.

This is expected to be the feature race of a meet in which four Olympic stars head the east of 100 athletes opening the indoor New York track season. Venzke originally entered the 3000 meters but changed his entry. Some believe it was only to renew his long running feud with Cunningham. The Potomac, Pa. Miller has never beaten Cunningham in the 800.

The other three Olympians contesting tonight are Don Lash of Indiana, finalist in the 5000 and 10,000 meters at Berlin who holds the world record of 8:53.3 for two miles; Joe McCluskey of the N. Y. A. C. national indoor steeplechase champion and Olympic finalist in the event, and Marty Glickman, Syracuse sophomore.

HI-LO CONTEST SEMI-FINALS ON NEXT WEEK

Boys and girls of Santa Ana and Orange county, it's a success!

Well, you know the answer—for you all are responsible for the big sessions that are being held three days a week at Walker's theater at Third and Bush streets.

It's HI-LO, or the art of handling the paddle and ball.

And here's something today that will bring a lot more contestants at the next workout at 4 p. m. Monday.

There absolutely is no need for any kind of tickets to enter the official contests.

It seems that word has reached R. M. Conklin, circulation manager of The Register, and Victor E. Walker, theater manager, who are sponsoring the race, that many boys and girls had the idea that it was necessary to buy a ticket to the theater, or some other kind of ticket. Now there's nothing to this report, the officials pointed out today.

The contests, or semi-finals, are staged on the sidewalk next to the theater, and the crowd is growing each day. There now are hundreds from all parts of the city in the game, and yesterday afternoon, two of them received free tickets to Saturday's Walker theater matinee.

They will be on the stage this afternoon, fighting it out to see which one stays to get it on the grand prizes at the end of the fourth week.

There's plenty of time left. Don't delay, but get out your HI-LO paddles and get going. Remember the free candy and the big prizes awaiting the winners at the end. You may be a winner, and a champion.

Heavy wagers on Indian Broom in the future books yesterday slashed his odds from 25 to 1 to 10 to 1—equal favorite with Rosemont and Seabiscuit in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

Sparkling training moves by the "Broom," coupled with the fact that Top Row and Time Supply, two sharp threats in the classic, are not very far advanced in their training, is swinging support to the chestnut 4-year-old flyer which holds the world's record for one mile and one-eighth.

Working over a slow and drying out racing strip yesterday morning, Indian Broom, hard held, stepped three-eighths in :36 4-5, breezing. This was as slow as the exercise boy could hold him. Another horse, working at the same time, came up alongside Indian Broom and the star fought for his head and a chance to really burn up the track.

Indian Broom makes his Santa Anita debut in the San Felipe Handicap next Saturday, Trainer Derrill Cannon said. This feature, at seven furlongs, will likewise serve as the first start of the season for the flashy Seabiscuit, and it also will bring out King Saxon.

Indian Broom's training to date has been thorough, systematic and marked by a series of highly satisfactory trials. He hasn't skipped a work since he has been here and he has been performing splendidly. He was freshened up and rested before coming to Santa Anita and looks the picture of good health.

FARMERS JOIN AUTO THROWS IN PROTEST ON ROCK THROUGH MARINE STRIKE STORE WINDOW

Orange county today joined 25,000 farm families in 43 organized farm bureau counties in California in a vigorous protest to President Roosevelt against a continuation of the maritime strike.

This was the revelation today of Dian R. Gardner, president of the Orange County Farm Bureau, Inc., who disclosed that Alex Johnson, secretary-treasurer of the state federation, had been selected as spokesman for the organized farm families of the state.

Johnson has wired the president, Gardner explained, "pleading with him to use the power and resources of the federal government in ending the strike, and stating emphatically that 'farmers are innocent and helpless sufferers.'"

Johnson's wire added that the strike is piling up again an unsalable surplus of farm products unduly depressing demand and price, and will have a serious effect on new crops.

The telegram sent to the president, Gardner pointed out, was dispatched at the insistent demand of members of the California Farm Bureau federation from various sections of the state.

The message to the president was as follows:

"Responding to the urge of members of the California Farm Bureau Federation in various parts of the state, I respectfully urge you to intervene to end the maritime strike in which our farmers are innocent and helpless sufferers. Inability to move much of our produce, whether fresh, dried, canned, or non-perishable, is not only unduly depressing demand and price but also calculated to create new crop surpluses by creating surplus amounts of old crop supplies."

"If the maritime strike is permitted to continue, the great financial gains made by California agriculture during the past year, putting the state in the first rank nationally, will have been seriously depleted with subsequent heavy losses not only to producers but to consumers, and equally serious setbacks to all industry and labor in California."

When smoke had cleared away, it was to the victor belongs the spoils, and the following victors in the election were announced:

Paul Cleary, president; Bobby Musick, vice president; Enid Jones, secretary; and Ralph Shallenberger, sergeant-at-arms.

A similar election will be held in the near future at the Frances Willard Junior high school, Lyle B. Mitchell, principal, said this morning.

It Seems to Me by ALICE IN WONDERLAND

Dr. Paul Schilder made the front page by the easy device of asserting that "Alice in Wonderland" is not a book for children. This is old stuff among psychologists, and one need not be a follower of Freud to look with some suspicion on Lewis Carroll as a nursery visitor.

The theory of alarm about Alice was voiced to me 10 or 12 years ago by Dr. Reede, of Washington. It was his notion that a child has a good deal of trouble in orienting itself in actual life, and that the fantasy of suddenly shooting up or dwindling made for emotional instability.

Indeed, one does not need to go all the way with the learned brethren in order to agree with them. It really doesn't matter much whether Dodgson was filled with a suppressed streak of cruelty. That would seem natural enough. After all, he was a mathematician and a clergyman, and almost inevitably he must have had an unconscious desire to blast some child more than any and split heavier quarry than doctrinal hairs.

The chief point is do children like "Alice in Wonderland"? It is my impression that the book has small appeal to young readers. I am a fan for Alice, but I didn't like it much until I reread it in adult life. The average small boy or girl who tackles Lewis Carroll is likely to come away with the impression that it is all very silly.

A Luxury for Adults

And that, I think, is a healthy reaction. After all, nonsense literature belongs to people who have reached the years of discretion. A child is engaged upon learning so many necessary things that he may be overburdened if fantasy is put in his path at the same time. My own theory is that not only "Alice" but practically all fantasy stories ought to be removed from the children's table. To me a happy domestic scene would consist of little Oscar, discovered upon right, reading the "Outline of History," with grandma chuckling to herself over "Through the Looking Glass." Father might be engaged upon Hans Christian Andersen, while mother could take a turn with the Brothers Grimm.

Dr. Schilder might well have pointed out that practically all fairy stories are heavily larded with cruelty. In the Grimm stories perfectly fearful things are done to witches. After reading these horrors, an impressionable child may get the notion that there is something evil about age, and the first thing you know grandma will leap from her chair with a scream upon discovering that the kiddies are playing foot on her.

Hans Christian Andersen is not much better in this respect. Of course, he is very sentimental, but that is merely the other side of the coin of cruelty. I can still remember the poor little match girl who froze to death on Christmas Eve. And isn't that a dainty dish set before the juvenile reader? To be sure, Andersen shed bitter tears about the fate of the little girl, but for that matter the walrus and the carpenter wept over the cypresses.

Easy on the Stimulants.

I do not think it is a good idea to stimulate the imagination of children unduly. Every now and then you may run into a mother who says, "My little Joan plays by herself quite happily all day. She makes up games for herself, and invents playmates with whom she carries on long conversations."

If you meet a woman like that give her some good advice. Tell her to take little Joan by the scruff of the neck and toss her out into the street with the other children. There is no more reason for a child to soliloquize than there was for Hamlet. When a boy or girl begins talking to himself there is something out of joint.

Fairy stories are not good for children, because it is very easy to put a young person in the mood where he wishes to escape the reality of the world. Life is much harder for children than for adults. Generally speaking, the unhappiest days of a human being's career lie between the ages of about 3 and 20. Like everybody else, a child's enjoyment consists in ego satisfaction, and, unfortunately, he must be controlled and thwarted and governed in his actions.

The Sidewalks of New York

This is particularly true of city-bred children. The automobile has made life far more arduous for youngsters. I'm not referring now to accidents and fatalities, but to the restriction of playing space. I was fortunate enough to have the run of a city block with the other boys in the neighborhood.

Indeed, since my mother sometimes reads my column, I want to assure her that my childhood was much happier than the average. My mother was wise enough to let me run wild, and I began to smoke at the age of 12, and distinctly remember drinking ale when I was 7. Perhaps I got too much ego satisfaction. If it had not been for that the personal pronoun would appear less frequently in this column.

But I'm entirely serious in maintaining that adults have more fun than children, and so I think that intellectual maturity ought to be speeded up. I've heard people say of some musical prodigy, "The poor little fellow was robbed of his childhood." Who stole his purse stole trash, because wonder children are conspicuously happy and contented.

I have said this is a tough world for children. People weep when the kiddies don't get their fairy stories, but those very same people often stand quite calm and dry-eyed as the boys and girls march into a factory. What the children of America have a right to demand is justice instead of sentimentality. Childhood may be all right for a visit, but I wouldn't live there if they paid me.

DISABLED VETS ON RECORD FOR WATER SUPPLY

At their meeting this week Jack Fisher chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, went on record favoring legislation to insure an adequate water supply for the veterans home at Napa, expected to come up at the present session of the state legislature.

Louis A. Riehl, past commander of the D. A. V. chapter, presented existing conditions at the home and hospital located at Yountville, near Napa, when water is required to be kept in containers in the upper floors of the buildings. The Rector Canyon Dam project is before the legislators for the purpose of eliminating this amazing condition in this state institution.

It was pointed out that this project would eliminate similar conditions at two other state institutions in the vicinity of the veterans' home and called attention of the public to this fact and solicited the aid of all citizens in the state.

Col. Nelson M. Holderman, Orange county World War hero and commander of the Veterans' Home in Yountville, on a recent visit, emphasized the necessity of securing an adequate water supply for the state institutions in the Napa valley.

Letters were ordered sent to all legislators from this district to call attention to the importance of passing legislation to provide the necessary water.

Attention is called to Sunday's visit to the veterans' hospital at Sausalito, and the state executive committee meeting at the Patriotic hall, Los Angeles, the same day. A large attendance at both meetings is urged by Commander John Cleary, who presided at the recent meeting.

EVANGELIST OF LOUISVILLE TO SPEAK SUNDAY

Mr. Douthit comes to Santa Ana well recommended by those who have heard him speak. He has been in the evangelistic work for several years, in addition to his regular work in Louisville, Ky. His work as an evangelist has carried him into all parts of the country and into some of the largest cities, where he has had remarkable success, according to Mr. Sewell.

FIREMEN ELECT OFFICERS AT ANNUAL MEET IN ORANGE

ORANGE, Jan. 9.—Officers were elected at a meeting of the Orange Firemen's association last night when a chicken dinner was served to members of the city council firemen and their wives with William Vickers as chef. Dinner was served in the drill room of the new fire station which had been decorated with bouquets of seasonal blooms for the occasion.

CLUB GROUP PLANS MEET FOR JAN. 18

ORANGE, Jan. 9.—Plans for a program to be presented by the Second Toastmasters section of the Orange Women's club at a meeting of the organization will be held January 18. The program was presented at a luncheon meeting yesterday at the clubhouse with Mrs. L. F. Douglas presiding.

The program will be one of unusual interest and will feature three students living at International house, on the University of California campus, who are in Orange county under the direction of Dr. Allen C. Blaisdell, head of International house. Music appropriate for the occasion will be featured. The speakers are said to be among the most outstanding of the year. Tea is to be served at the close of the meeting.

Roll call responses were made yesterday with New Year resolutions and the program was opened with a talk by Ross Taylor, oral English teacher at the Orange Union high school. Taylor brought out among other points about public speaking that a speaker should be conversant with his subject and that the subject should be presented without hesitation and without error.

Mrs. J. D. Hayes gave a comprehensive talk on "Mexico City of the Past and Present," telling of the floating islands which once were floated about the canals and of the architecture of the city as well as of its long and colorful history.

Mrs. Perry Groat told of the many plants of Mexico and the animals native to that country. More than 32 kinds of cereals, 113 medicinal plants, eight gums, 156 kinds of timber and 21 cabinet woods beside many other kinds of plants and trees.

Mrs. G. W. Wood was toastmaster, introducing the speakers and bringing with her a number of interesting articles from Mexico. These included a number of small figurines which were found in the fields where they had been thrown to bring bountiful harvests and to appease native gods. Mrs. E. B. Workman and Miss Fannie Haebler will act as program chairmen during February and March.

DIESEL AUTO TO BE SHOWN HERE TUESDAY

Heralding a new era in passenger car travel, arrangements have been made by the L. D. Coffing company to exhibit a Diesel powered passenger car to the public on Monday and Tuesday, January 11 and 12 at their used car lot, 311 East Fifth street, Santa Ana.

This car is a conventional automobile except that its gasoline engine has been replaced by a Diesel engine of a new type that is just being placed on the market. The engine has six cylinders, 75 horsepower, has no spark plugs, ignition system or carburetor and is free from carbon. The exhaust gas is non-poisonous. The motor generates very little heat. The temperature behind the dash board is about the same as in the shade anywhere the automobile happens to be. Although the exhaust manifold is cast iron, it does not get too hot to touch.

This car is now being tested on the Pacific Coast and has shown exceptional fuel economy. It is averaging 30 miles per gallon of fuel that costs four and one-half cents a gallon. On a recent trip from Los Angeles to San Diego and return, a distance of 285 miles, the fuel cost was 54 cents, about one-tenth of the usual cost.

In connection with this exhibit, a motion picture "Diesels on Parade," will be shown in the L. D. Coffing show room at 311 East Fifth street on Monday evening at 8:00.

This picture will trace the history and development of the oil-burning engine from the first one made by Dr. Rudolph Diesel in 1892 to the present day, and graphically depicts the application of the Diesel engine to all types of industry such as stationary, plant, truck, automobile, tractor, zeppelin, flying boats, airplanes, and trains.

All interested in Diesel engines are cordially invited to view this picture at the above time and place. It is free.

JIMMY FIDLER — in — HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 9.—Mutterings: To the ducking pond with radio apes who get by imitating voice characteristics of Zasu Pitts and Ned Sparks! Nervous itch: To clip half of Ronald Colman's too perfect mustache as he sestas between shots. Society deba who work "extra" and thus cheat deserving strugglers should be dealt some awful punishment—such as being forced to watch their own coming out parties. Imaginable hilarious evening: To invite all divorced-in-Mexico couples ruling autowashing such parties. Job I want: Stand-in for William Powell during kick-scene rehearsals with Myrna Loy. Bet George Raft would have leered ten years ago had a seer predicted he would one day walk out on a $4,000-a-week contract. Growl: Censors would do better to leave movies alone and let Parent-Teacher associations designate right and wrong film-fare for children. Someone will net a fortune out of black-glass spectacles behind which to "sleep out" boring pictures.

What sport to interview Cecil B. (Bathtub) De Mille for the "Clumbers' Annual! Wondering muse: Will Shirley Temple be the first child star to grow up on the screen, where all others faded in early 'teens? Awful thought: Pettit Janet Gaynor in Greta Garbo's shoes. Silly notion: To inform the hard-boiled crew of Charles Bickford's whaling boat "Your boss also owns a lingerie shoppe." Then swim like a fish for the mainland!

Electricians at the Samuel Goldwyn studio were rapidly going mad in their futile attempts to adjust lights correctly for a "night shot." After wasting most of the morning—to say nothing of several thousand dollars—the director decided to re-write that portion of the script and have the action take place in the daytime. When word of this change reached Goldwyn, he bounced from his chair in fine rage. "Who is this director," he bellowed, "who turns night into day without my permission?"

More and more often the thought occurs to me that The Cradle (Evanston, Illinois, far-famed home for babies) should have a Hollywood branch. Glancing around me, I find that a dozen famous stars, among them Fredric March, Miriam Hopkins, Al

NOT MORE THAN A FEW weeks ago, Betty Jaynes was unknown. Almost unheralded, she sang the tasking role of Mimi in Puccini's "La Boheme" for the Chicago City Opera Co. The grizzled city was astounded. For Betty is only 15 years old. Singing opposite her was Giovanni Martinelli, veteran of the operas. Immediately she was swamped with contracts. One of the first to be fulfilled will bring Betty to the air tomorrow evening for her first network appearance. The program is the Ford concert.

Two operatic arias have been programmed by the little schoolgirl—"Addio" from "La Boheme" and Micaela's aria from "Carmen." Later in the hour-long program she'll sing "Fruehling" and "Rose Morn" with the orchestra. With the chorus, "Thine Alone" from Herbert's "Eileen." Jose Iturbi is to conduct. (KNX, 6)

PROGRAM NOTES

TONIGHT: "NAMES" ARE SPRINKLED heavily throughout Joe Cook's hour. Babe Ruth, John McCormack, Johnny Weissmuller, Edgar Rice Burroughs, William Moran, Jean Lussier, Lona Brothers, Ruth is still a hero to the youth of America. Moran is the former head of the U. S. Secret Service. Lussier is the only living man to have gone over Niagara Falls in a barrel. (KFI, 6:30)

Since the death of the youngest brother some time ago, the three remaining Mills Brothers have been silent. On Floyd Gibbons' show they'll bring their mail-order guitar and sense of rhythm, with Father Mills rounding out the quartet, back to the air. (KNX, 6)

Charlie Marshall and his Mavericks will pipe their songs into Chicago from San Francisco for dialers of the National Barn Dance. Marshall filled an extended engagement with this program last year. (KECA, 8)

Ed Wynn's guests are the Eton Boys. (KECA, 9)

TOMORROW: CALIFORNIA'S Hour will help launch the Golden Jubilee celebration of Occidental College. It's good to hear Connie Boswell's warm voice again. (KECA, 7:15 p. m.)

FLASH!
KEN MURRAY TAKES over the Burns and Allen spot April 1. This is definite. Rumor has it that Lud Gluskin, west coast musical director for CBS, will play the music. Burns and Allen are not leaving the air, however. They merely switch sponsors on that date.

SPORTS-MAN-ABOUT-TOWN

Manager George Lackaye, of the stars, bade farewell to Santa Ana today, moving bag and baggage to Escondido.

Lackaye, leaving the insurance business for an attractive post with an automobile agency, but he'll still be a manager. He'll be sales manager for the Buick, Olds and GMC trucks.

One of the most successful managers in the history of night ball, George was a kind of Jekyll and Hyde. A polished gentleman on the field, he was a hell-cat on it when things went wrong. Umpires say they always hated to see "Big Bill" Cole of Joe Rodgers charge 'em and agree that their barbs didn't lash like Lackaye's.

Five will get you ten if you call the name of Lackaye's successor. None of the Santa Ana Stars' commissioners will talk, which probably means they're as much in the dark as the public and press.

Bill Cole undoubtedly could have the job if he wanted; but Bill meant it when he retired from action in the middle of the 1935 campaign.

The Herald-Express brags that its Jack McDonald and Conservator Cal lead all handicappers at Santa Anita. Which isn't exactly the truth. Because The Register's Tow Gwynne has had more winners than McDonald, Cal, Otis, Bernard or any of 'em. However, this isn't to be taken as a recommendation to follow our selections; it's merely to keep the records straight. As Tom himself says: "Save your coconuts; it's easier to save 'em than make more at a race track."

"Little Caesar," one of the matadors on Monday's Orange County Athletic club card, is new only in name. He's really just plain Bill Grubbs, one of the preliminary boys who has been doing right well since changing names; better in fact than Jerry Monahan, the big Irishman who became the Masked Marvel. The fans recognized Monahan's big feet and hoisted him so much he became Monahan again.

Bing Crosby's new track at Del Mar, opening a 25-day meeting July 3, is almost as accessible to Santa Ana as the old track. Further removed, of course, it is right down Highway 101, and there are no traffic problems.

Begins to look like the magic of Gerald Allen Oliver is working... "Tex" was around and about just a couple of days but already four Don football players have signified their intention of moving to the conference in February. Co-Captain Allen Titenor, a husky end, and Hal Mossman, a nimble running guard, are the latest converts. Howard Rash and Bob Holmes were first. Titenor was supposed to be Stanford-bound.

Coach Blanchard Beatty of Santa Ana's junior college basketball team is angling for a game with the Broadway Dodgers, a gang of barnstorming negroes from New York who will be on the coast in March. They're funnier than the "champion" Negro football team that invaded the west last summer.

The more Coach Bill Cook looks around the better he feels about the Dons' track team. The team was joined by graduation and prospects are still only fair. But the first inventory over the winter didn't transfer to San Diego State after all, and will be on deck for the relay and probably the half. It develops that Dick Tauber, the big Kansan that Cook counts on for a lot of tackle play next fall, hurtled the javelin 160 feet in high school. Dick Griffith and Les Huhn, a couple of Orange jays, will help, too. Griffith did 21 feet in high school and Griffith was up around six feet.

It's a little early to worry about track and field, with basketball hardly under way, but all the wisemen have already conceded the Orange league title to Stewart Whit's Orangemen.

Although Elmer Wagers, Orange's crackjack half-miler, is through with prep competition Coach White has the following goodies coming back: Capt. Norman Burbridge, who will crowd two-flat in the Anzac Jacobs, 22-foot, 10.3 sprinted; Vernon Worden, 10.3 sprinted; Bob Cruzen, 52-second quarter-mile; George Andrich, 5.8 jumper; Steve Marsh, a good hurdler.

Nice thing about Orange's athletes is that the bulk of 'em move up to Santa Ana jays.

Indians Lose Ace Center and Game

Without the services of their star center, Eddie Harker, Fullerton high school dropped their first Foothill league game to Glendale, 24 to 21, yesterday. Harker broke a small bone in his foot and will be out the greater part of the season.

The lineups: (21) Fullerton McCurdy (34) (16) Fullerton Hillton (15) (6) Johnson Tauxe (6) (4) Butler Elliott (4) (3) Allen Substitutions: Glendale-Burris (6).

LONDON'S LIKES AFRICA

Jim London, heavyweight wrestler who dropped off in Johannesburg, Africa on a world tour to engage in one match, already has stayed two months, and now is dicker for a match with Ray Steele. Promoters have offered Steele a guarantee of $5000 to meet London.

Anti-Nazis to Boycott Title Fight in June

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Decision of the non-sectarian Anti-Nazi league to boycott the scheduled title fight in June between Heavyweight champion Jimmy Braddock and Max Schmeling of Germany was interpreted today as clearing the way for Braddock to fight Joe Louis.

James Gould, manager of Braddock, agreed to a non-title bout with Louis in Atlantic City in February, but the New York boxing commission ruled it out after Schmeling made a special trip from Germany "to look out for his rights."

The Anti-Nazi league, through its director of publicity, Mortimer Zerkow, announced that Schmeling was a Nazi commodity and that as such the league would prosecute a vigorous boycott campaign against him.

"I won't put Jim in the ring with Schmeling if this boycott goes through," Gould said. "We'll take Louis instead. We have a contract, but I am sure that after the boxing commission learns of the action, it will be ruled invalid."

'Farmer' Burns Of Mat Fame Succumbs at 76

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Martin (Farmer) Burns, dean of American wrestling, died at the home of his daughter last night.

Burns won his nickname, "Farmer," as a gangling youth in the wrestling arena. He held the heavyweight championship from 1885 to 1898. It was during this time that, meeting all "comers" with a carnival, he discovered an Iowa farm boy, Frank Gotch, of Humboldt, Gotch developed under Burns' training into the greatest of American wrestlers.

Burns engaged in more than six thousand matches, and lost only seven. He entered his first professional match when he was 19 and retired 43 years later.

To prove his theory that a strong person could repel a human's nose, Burns often let himself be dropped four inches suspended by a rope around his neck.

PROMOTER SAMPSON RETURNS TO O.C.A.C.

Promoter Sam Sampson was home today from a two weeks' trip to the Pacific Northwest, and personally handled Monday night's four-bout wrestling card at the Orange County Athletic club when Howard Cantowine, ruthless inventor of the spectacular "hangman" hold, meets Sammy Stein, former all-American grid star, in a three-fall main event.

Cantowine hasn't wrestled in Southern California for several months. In fact the Hangman has been out of circulation due to injuries sustained in an automobile crash and aggravated later in a series of tough mat battles. He returns here to pick up his former following and fulfill a contract he had with Sampson last year.

Stein, in his only appearance before Orange county mat fans, turned back Indiana Jules Strongbow, showing plenty of action and a devastating flying tackle.

Ignacio Martinez, 220-pound Mexican favorite, tackles "Tiny" Roebuck, 280-pound former Haskell Indian, and ex-heavyweight fighter in the 45-minute semi while "Little Caesar" meets Bob Coleman and Baron Ginsberg, bearded former Nobleman tackles Lee the Lion Papiano, Greek veteran.

NEW SCHEDULE FOR COMMERCIAL LOOP

At present, the undefeated Wilson Service five is certain of winning the first round.

CARDINALS BOB UP WITH GOOD CATCHER EVERY SPRING

Although first rate catchers are almost as scarce as good heavyweights, the St. Louis Cardinals manage to bob up with one each spring.

It seems that all the Red Birds have to do is ship a young man to their Columbus farm. . . . Bill DeLancey, Ken O'Dea, Brusie Ogradowski and now Arnold Owen. They'll do until a brighter quartet of young receivers comes along on one club in successive years.

Not a few trained observers suspect that "Mickey" Owen will go farther than any of them. The Springfield, Mo., kid who came to the Cardinals organization from the sandlots of Los Angeles, has it all—speed, arm, bat and intelligence.

And not the least important is the fact that Owen, who is only 20, will assert himself.

Most of the peacocks gulped their Adam's apples when Branch Rickey visited the chain gang's recruit training camp at Martow, Fla., last spring, but the director of the Cardinals organization, who is the far-fung Cardinal system, and chirped, "Harry, Branch old scout!"

Owen is the pop off type, but in an inoffensive way. He'd make a great battery partner for the illustrious Dizzy Dean, who'd do well to get a word in edgewise while Owen is around.

Transferred to Avon Park, where the Columbus and Rochester outfits prepared to make good. After informing all the Avon Park waitresses that he was the "Red Bird's" regular catcher for 1936, he proceeded to prove it.

Burns won his nickname, "Farmer," as a gangling youth in the wrestling arena. He held the heavyweight championship from 1885 to 1898. It was during this time that, meeting all "comers" with a carnival, he discovered an Iowa farm boy, Frank Gotch, of Humboldt, Gotch developed under Burns' training into the greatest of American wrestlers.

MOORS, POLY SNATCH OTHER LEAGUE GAMES

COAST PREPARATORY LEAGUE W. L. Pct. San Diego 1 0 1.000. Alhambra 1 0 1.000. Long Beach 1 0 1.000. Santa Ana 1 0 1.000. Redwood 1 0 1.000. Herbert Hoover 1 0 1.000.

Punching in baskets almost at will, San Diego's Hillers buried Santa Ana's basketball hopes, 37 to 18, in last night's Coast Preparatory league opener.

Before a crowd that filled the bleachers in Andrews gymnasium, the Gray Castle troupe completely outclassed Coach "Pinky" Greene's Saints.

San Diego's lead was at no time in jeopardy. Although not displaying championship form, the Hillers flashed a fast-breaking attack that functioned particularly well in the last half when Forward Dill, accounting for -1 points, found the range.

The Southern California prep champions led 12 to 5 at half-time. Immediately at the start of the second period, "Big Boy" Milligan lead off with a long side shot, boosting Santa Ana's score two points and Captain Sam Lockhart followed with another basket from mid-court. This was followed by another long side shot.

That was as close as the Saints came. Dill spurred on the San Diegoans and they baffled the home guard with a dazzling fast-break the rest of the route.

Joe Koegler's Santa Ana "Bees" made a nice showing in the preliminary but San Diego also won that game, 25 to 23.

Trailing 10 to 2 at the end of the first quarter, Santa Ana crept up on the Hillers until they came out on top, 12 to 11 at half time.

Little Russell Duffel accounted for two of the field goals. Once the Saints were on even terms with the San Diegoans, the game was nip and tuck with no more than four points difference at any time.

East Calls Stanford Best College Cagers In Nation

Hank Luisetti, Stanford's great basketball, ready to shoot for the hoop. He scored 416 points for the west coast champs last year.

Sport Nuggets —BY— John Neubauer

Whittier and Bowling Green, Ohio, furnished Arthur L. (Lucky) Nunn with his 1937 basketball team. The Echle brothers and Merritt Lambert are from the eastern city, while Lee Woodward and "Little Pig" Allison are from Whittier. . . . Sonny Leichtfuss, captain, Ted Neja and Archie Baker, the Orange county sharpshooters, have taken a back seat for these taller, more finished cagers. . . . But their one consolation is that they repeatedly beat the regulars in practice. . . .

Quentin Matzen has the best potential basketball material under his Woolen Mills roster, yet, through the lack of practice his team does not play its best possible brand of basketball. . . . In losing to Fullerton, 49 to 38, the Weavers faded out of the picture after matching bucket for bucket with the upcountry jays. . . .

Matzen's contingent will enter the strongest Los Angeles commercial league, and if the metropolitan fives don't get together oftener than twice a week, the Santa Ana team will be right on top. . . . They have honest to goodness possibilities. . . .

Merritt Bush, bigger than a house, was back in Fullerton for the winter recess. . . . Having gained all Big Ten honors, the giant Chicago guard is now studying the possibilities of a professional career. . . . Winfred Schulte, the speedster from Yorba Linda who tried to induce Felix Basabe to go to Notre Dame, came home for the holidays. . . .

Schulte's father used to row for the Fighting Irish in the days when Notre Dame had a crew. . . . But that went out when the good fathers of South Bend dammed the lake and ruined the estuary. . . .

John Raitt, husky begoggled shot putter, who changed his affiliations from U. S. C. to Redlands last year, is ready to burn up the Southern California conference when he becomes eligible for track and field competition. . . . He is a bit of all right when it comes to the weights. . . . Practically single handed he won the State track title for Fullerton several years ago. . . . He still holds the Southern California prep record with the 12-pound bulb.

Without Wild Bill Neufeld to furnish opposition, W. Harold Lang's Yellowjackets should figure to top the Eastern conference in the cinch-deep activities next spring. . . . Fullerton men have been working out since September. . . . but the actual work begins after the New Year. . . . With Larry Valero, the 440-yard star, and a number of sensational preps the Hornets figure to win the conference.

Valencia high school's basketball season already is a success. Twice now Clarence Bishop's Tigers have turned back Dick Glover's Colonists by respectable scores. . . . "Gosh," said tall, lanky Joe Jamison, "I wish we had a good floor to work on instead of practicing on a dirt court outdoors." . . . Yes, those Placencia kids are overcoming a big handicap, but they manage to produce players like Del Jones, who stands out like a wart on a debutante's nose. . . .

Louie Neva is serious about his baseball. He is actually listening to instructions from the Firemen coaching staff of "Bus" Callan, old-time Oakland Coast leaguer, and Otto Brande and Francis Lemon, ex-Mississippi Valley leaguers. . . . He asks questions and is anxious to pick up all the technical knowledge and profit by others' experience. . . . He realizes that softball holds no future for him.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Stanford's basketball varsity has returned to the Pacific Coast, but the memory lingers on.

CHIEF IS HONORED

Pictured here is Chief Elmer Wood, prominent recent arrival in Laguna Beach. Chamber of Commerce Executive George A. Portus welcomed him, and in doing so, started a bitter feud.

PIPE OF PEACE MISSING AS LAGUNA INJUN CHIEFS BATTLE FOR FAME-HONOR

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 9.—Jealousy, the green-eyed monster, has reared his head at Laguna Beach, resulting in a bitter feud between "Elmer Wood," newly installed outside man for a Laguna Smokerie, and Hjalmar (pronounced Elmer) another Indian of dubious character.

Neither Indian will make concessions, and each resents the presence and activities of the other. Recently, George Alfred Portus, president-secretary of the local chamber of commerce, and an extremely good looking young lady, Dorothy Ramsey, presented Elmer Wood with a key to the city.

Hjalmar, him no like. He's already told his tale of woe, however, and now it's Chief Elmer Wood's turn to speak his piece.

Interviewed yesterday, the chief expressed discontentment at Chief Sagamore Hjalmar ("Elmer"), published in a recent issue of the Register. Assured by the reporter that the Register's policy was to print all sides of controversial matters, the chief unhesitatingly said, subject to extremely free translation:

"Ugh! That fellow Hjalmar isn't so hot, either! I may be wooden, but wot's he? Plaster—or is it plastered? He's inside, where he belongs; I'm out here, where I can meet people. I'm hand-painted; three artists worked on me. And the sculpting—ain't that something? Takes some skill to get a log of wood, and knock away the parts you don't need, so you'll have an authentic Indian like me. And as to me being only five feet tall, I refuse to discuss the matter. If I ain't Iroquois, what am I?—I resent that crack by Hjalmar ("Elmer") about naming me "Moe," to say nothing of the other monikers he suggested. Doesn't he know that that Mesopotamian look on my beaver bears out the theory that the Indians are one of the Ten Lost Tribes? Well, then! He asks me to dwell with him in Amity. Ok; but where is Amity? I'm satisfied here, as it is... I have spoken. Ugh!..."

Meanwhile, Elmer Wood, remains in dignified state outside, while "Hjalmar" (Elmer), sulks in broody silence inside the same establishment, which once housed the "Amey Corner."

FIRST AID OF POLICE SAVES LIFE OF GIRL

The life of 17-year-old Mary Elizabeth Grupe, of Costa Mesa, probably was saved last night by city police who received an accident call to Eddie Martin's apartment, on Newport boulevard, and sped to the scene.

The accident involved a collision between cars driven by Wayne Jones, about 18, of Costa Mesa, with whom Miss Grupe was riding, and Benjamin Mooschekian, 33, of Downey. When the Jones car overturned, Miss Grupe suffered a cut across the temporal artery, in her head. She was losing blood rapidly, when Sgt. J. F. McWilliams, and Officers J. W. Foster and Paul Cozad arrived.

McWilliams, assisted by fellow officers, applied pressure to an artery and stopped the flow of blood. After first aid was rendered, an ambulance took the girl to county hospital, Officer McWilliams holding the artery with his hand en route to the hospital, California Highway Officer Dan Adams, called to investigate circumstances of the accident, praised the Santa Ana officers highly, for their first aid work.

County hospital attendants reported it was necessary to take eight stitches in Miss Grupe's head, before she could be released and sent home. She is improving today.

JUDGE GRANTS DIVORCE TO WOMAN AND THEN VACATES IT

The marriage of Fern and Homer Hunt, estranged Orange couple, yesterday imitated the antics of the fabled Finigan—it was off again, on again.

The couple were actually divorced for 20 minutes, then found themselves married again, as Superior Judge G. K. Scovel set aside the wife's decree at the instance of the husband's attorney, Harvey H. Myers, of Santa Ana.

Hunt, who had been held in custody on a charge of non-support, got released in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court just in time to nip the divorce his wife was getting in Judge Scovel's court.

The case had been heard, after Hunt's default was entered, and Mrs. Hunt's attorney, A. E. Koepel, had prepared the interlocutory decree, which he was bringing into Judge Scovel's chambers to be signed.

Just then, Attorney Myers dashed in. He wasn't on horseback but nevertheless made a most effective appearance.

He informed the court that there had been an agreement that nothing should be done about the divorce hearing just yet, and that he had been arranging with the district attorney's office a financial agreement that promised dismissal of the non-support charge against Hunt. Hunt had just been released by Judge Allen in the other department on his own recognizance, with his arraignment postponed to February 5.

Hunt wanted to contest his wife's divorce charges, and would seek custody of their son, aged 29 months. Judge Scovel immediately returned to the bench, ordered the divorce decree vacated, and also vacated the entry of Hunt's default. Attorney Myers then filed a demurrer to the wife's divorce complaint, which the court overruled. Myers then was granted five days in which to file an answer.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt were divorced, and then they weren't divorced. But both will now try to get divorced again.

Samuel Haddad, 38, of San Francisco, who was arrested as an alleged forger and then presented as a criminal insane, when he became violent and fell in a convulsion in front of the county jail, while being taken to court, today was committed by Superior Judge James L. Allen to the Mendocino state hospital for the criminal insane, near Ukiah.

Should he recover his sanity there, he will be immediately prosecuted on the original forgery charge, according to Santa Ana police officials.

Haddad, also said to have been a member of a Georgia chain gang at one time, was arrested here December 28, after allegedly representing himself as a federal officer in a Santa Ana liquor store. A. W. Ashbrook, 58, of San Diego, arrested with Haddad, subsequently was released.

In a letter to Police Chief Floyd W. Howard, the Rev. Harry E. Owings of the First Baptist church, expressed thanks today for the crossing guard provided by city police near the church on Sunday mornings.

"For some time I have had it in mind to express appreciation for the policeman at our church crossing, particularly on Sunday mornings," the Reverend Mr. Owings said. "Sometimes, of course, I see him and many times, I do not; but I understand that he is there regularly at opening and closing hours. It is a big help to have this police protection for the safety of our people, and I want to let you know of my appreciation and that of the church."

The Rev. Mr. Owings said he would urge that his congregation give every cooperation possible to the officers assigned to the duty at the church on Sundays.

After hearing Triplett's testimony of physical disability, which he said forced him to write checks, because he could not hold a job, Judge Allen commented that Triplett seemed to be more concerned with self pity than anything else. "The Bible says that poor folks have poor ways," said the judge.

Because Triplett had a revolver in his possession when arrested, he was not eligible to probation, the court stated.

ANNOUNCE INSTALLATION BUENA PARK, Jan. 9.—January 21 has been announced as the date for installation of officers for the Buena Park Masonic lodge.

Mrs. Campbell, who was the speaker at yesterday's meeting, pointed out that under provisions of the act the county must match any amounts contributed through benefits of the Social Security act. Mrs. E. Kate Rea, president of the Orange county organization, announced that she will name a committee within a few days to investigate the possibility of this county participating in these benefits.

Various committees of the organization submitted their annual reports during the business session, an appreciable decrease in the pain in his legs, swelled by varicose veins, the pope spent a comparatively comfortable night.

Brain Twizzlers

By Prof. J. D. Flint

A gang of bank robbers planned to rob an outlying bank of a city and were discussing the best time to do the job. They knew that two police squads patrolled the street the bank was on from the center of town to the end where the bank was located. Each squad took twenty-five minutes from one end to the other and stayed five minutes at each end. After making their decision the gang put the plan into execution the following night. They had decided to hit the bank just as the police squads passed each other. At midnight the squad near the bank started for town and when they got three-quarters of the way to town they found the other squad with a flat tire which explained why they didn't pass at the half-way mark. What time was the bank robbed?

Modern Poets

By MISS BEULAH MAY

These Twinkling Acres by Edith Mirick, Kaleidograph Press. This volume of poems that have taken prizes, not one of which the reader would be without. And of how few books of poetry can that be said. Her work has often appeared in this column for she is one of the best writers of sonnets in the country and a great favorite of mine.

GOLDEN HERITAGE

How gently after all the fiery travel

A star assumes the guise of dale and crest.

Masks in a grassy pasture hill and level.

The trees and blossoms to a smouldering breast.

We children of the sun see nothing luminous

Within the homely acres that we till.

Naming as rather humble and inglorious

A star which goes in dress of field and hill.

Yet what a golden heritage: To plow

A sun's breast and to reap from shimmering soil

Fruit of the seeded furrow and the bough;

And then to rest from valorous days of toil.

Clothed in a garment of as glittering dust

As wraps that star we clambered for—and lost.

WALK AT SUNRISE

Between the sand-hills and the foamy bar

A furlong's walk, I came upon these things:

A ruby-studded fish who sped a star.

A crab, two feathers from a sea-gull's wings.

It was a little after dawn. The world

As far as I could tell belonged to me.

I found a broken conch the tide had hurled.

The song spilled out, a limb anemone.

There was no voice but that of wind and water.

None but my footprint on that golden mile.

Stretched as the earth will be when man is gone.

Stretched as the earth was when man was not, in utter

Blue emptiness. And there, a little while,

I walked intruder in the house of dawn.

EPITAPH

If I am remembered, let it be by this:

I knew the cradle that the swallow mounded

The secret of the dawning crystal

Where winter-prisoned wings were darkly folded.

The squirrel was my friend. The plummy way

He held his tail was dear to me. I neighbored

With petal-folk, nor let my foot betray

The little castle where the ant had labored.

I seek no greater fame. Let this be known:

I loved the mountain and the star above it.

Happy to have it written: "She was one

Who knew the oak tree well enough to love it.

Reading in kindly boughs the verbal creed

That Spring is born of darkness and a seed."

STATE AND WALKER BILLS END TONIGHT

That sweeping drama of the northwoods and human emotions "Edna Ferber, and a hilarious comedy of college football, "Pigskin Parade," will be screened at Walker's for the last times tonight. Edward Arnold, Frances Farmer and Joel McCrea are the leading players in the lumber industry story and a group of screen favorites including Stuart Erwin, Arline Judge, Johnny Downs, Dixie Dunbar and others, brings the gridiron story.

The State presents Charles Starrett in "Cowboy Star," for the last times tonight. Short subjects include "Fibbing Fibbers," a Walter

TWO BIG HITS OPEN SUNDAY AT WALKER'S

A scintillating program of two of the biggest attractions of the season offers patrons of Walker's new theater, Third and Bush streets outstanding entertainment for four days starting Sunday. These hit films are "Theodora Goes Wild," with Irene Dunne and "Reunion," with the world-famous Dionne quintuplets and an all-star cast.

Miss Dunne rises to new heights of achievement in her new film in which she has a comedy role. Demure, shy, captivating and alluring by turn, she has the role of a small town girl who really is a famous author of tremendously popular books. Melvyn Douglas has a leading role as the man she loves.

Many dramatic and romantic surprises are presented in "Reunion," the story of a gathering of men and women who were brought into the world by a lovable country doctor. The famous quintuplets have a prominent part in the film and the supporting cast brings Jean Hersholt, Rochelle Hudson, Dorothy Peterson, Helen Vinson, Robert Kent, Slim Summerville and John Qualen. The old doctor makes good use of the occasion to straighten out many tangled affairs of his "babies."

Walker's will present continuous shows daily in the future, starting at 1 p. m. Saturdays and Sundays, and 2 p. m. the other days of the week with matinee prices of 20c until 4 p. m.

"CHARGE OF LIGHT BRIGADE" TO SHOW AT FOX BROADWAY

The sensational "Charge of the Light Brigade" has been booked by Manager Lester J. Fountain for the Fox Broadway theater for three days beginning January 21. It is ranked as one of the season's big pictures. It is a tribute to the courage of commercial enterprise and faith in artistic vision.

In every phase, big is the only term adequately descriptive. At any time and in any place the picture, which is inspired by Lord Tennyson's saga of heroism and sacrifice, is 100 per cent entertaining. The action-packed and suspense-packed motivation blends thrilling historical fact with heart-touching romantic and dramatic fiction. The acting is of high caliber, always plausible and believable. The photography and musical score are as thoroughly a dramatic part of the picture as is the excellent work of all the players. The story value is impressive.

The emotion-arousing story is a simple and powerful tale of courage and sacrifice in love and war. Indian brothers vie for the love of a girl. Her heart knowing not which way to turn, she fears to make a choice. Fraternal and romantic conflict ensues. Marjory military combat in which treason and treachery have places is a vibrant counterpoint. In authentic and imagination-grIPPING realism the sequences depicting a Persian expedition siege of Chukoti and the bloody massacre that follows as well as murderous treachery on the river are reproduced. Out of the horror of this warfare comes the soldiers' realization of where the woman's love lies.

The leading parts are taken by Errol Flynn, Patrick Knowles, Olivia de Havilland, C. Henry Gordon, Henry Stephenson, Nigel Bruce, Donald Crisp, Robert Barrat and Spring Byington.

OCEANVIEW

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schuth are entertaining as house guests Mrs. Schuth's mother, Mrs. A. L. Leighton of Winfield, Kan., and a sister, Mrs. J. C. Boles of Colorado. Mrs. Leighton will remain for three months and Mrs. Boles six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Henry and son were Pasadena visitors on New Year's day.

Mrs. Claus Couey and her house guest, Miss Agnes Wagner of Artesia, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Fyman at Artesia.

Cattlett comedy: "Toytown Hall," a color cartoon; a news reel and a chapter of "Custer's Last Stand."

ATTRACTIONS AT LOCAL THEATERS

Jack Oakie and Lily Pons, stars of "That Girl From Paris" are shown in the accompanying picture. The film opened at the Fox Broadway theater today.

Glenda Farrell, Dick Powell and Joan Blondell are shown herewith in a scene from "The Gold Diggers of 1937," current attraction at the Fox West Coast theater.

Coming Attractions

FOX BROADWAY

Producer Douglas MacLean has brought James Cagney back in a typical knock-down-and-drag-out Cagney film in "Great Guy," which will open at the Fox Broadway theater on Wednesday of next week. On the same program is "Career Woman," starring Claire Trevor and Michael Whalen.

As far as fistic action is concerned there is plenty of it in "Great Guy," especially in the last reel. The elements of comedy, romance and drama are plentiful. Satisfactory for the Cagney fans who like to see him swing his fists, the film presents James Burke, Edward Brophy, Henry Kolker, Robert Gleckler, Joseph Sawyer and Matty Fain in good performances.

Appointed a sealer of weights and measures, Cagney embarks on a one-man crusade to clean up the short-weight racket. With the straight story interlarded with comedy romance involving Mae Clarke, the trail leads to Gleckler, a fixer; the figure-head mayor, Douglas Wood, and the boss, Kolker. When Fain and Edward Gargan are kidnapped and manhandled for being honest, Cagney gathers enough evidence to show that Kolker is the brains behind the men, who steal the evidence.

From that point the film's pace picks up. Sawyer falls before the Cagney right and he trails Kolker and Gleckler to the apartment where the evidence is hidden. Cagney hands out a terrific beating.

gets the papers, cleans up the racket and completes the romance with Miss Clarke.

WALKER'S

The attractions at Walker's new theater next Thursday, Friday and Saturday are "Born to Dance," with Eleanor Powell, and "Captain's Kid," with Guy Kibbee and Sybil Jason.

"Born to Dance" is an airy musical comedy with lots of good songs and dances. The finale number is very spectacular and requires the use of a tremendous set. The story concerns a small town girl who comes to New York falls in love with a Navy man but thinks she is losing him to a stage star. James Stewart is the Navy man and Virginia Bruce the show girl.

Others in the cast are Una Merkel, Buddy Ebsen, Sid Silvers, Frances Langford, Raymond Walburn and Alan Dinehart.

The second is an appealing story of a child who has a warm place in the affections of an old salt. Sonja Henie is a sensation in her first screen picture, "One in a Million," which will open at the Fox West Coast theater on Thursday of next week. A second feature, "Racing Lady," featuring Smith Ballou, Ann Duvak and Harry Carey is an added attraction.

Established star in one section of the show world, a skating ace, Miss Henie steps confidently into pictures with immediate success.

Lovely and talented Irene Dunne, who is starred in "Theodora Goes Wild," one of the recent comedy hits, is shown here in a scene from the film with Melvyn Douglas. It plays at Walker's four days starting Sunday.

The stars of "Straight From the Shoulder," which shows at the State theater Sunday and Monday, are pictured here as they are ready to battle gangsters. They are Andy Clyde, Katherine Locke, Ralph Bellamy and David Holt.

Displaying from her first scene a vivid personality, a freshness and charm which get over with men and women alike, and proving a potentially fine actress as well as an outstanding exhibitionist, Miss Henie contributes a large share to the picture's rich and varied entertainment. Her skating, danced to the rhythms of music as something new on the screen, offers delightful novelty and pictorial beauty.

Personally in these skating sequences, lavishly and appropriately incorporated, she rivets attention with verve, grace and precision, while in the ice ballet she dominates the ensemble and skaters in gorgeous moving designs. In the romance, as well, she has warmth and spirit, with her trace of accent agreeable rather than irritating.

The picture is by no means a one-name affair. Lavishly produced and ably directed, fattened with hilarious and assorted comedy and attuned to music and lyrics of distinction, "One in a Million" is a heart-marked as one of the best pictures of the year.

STATE

"Star for a Night," the delightful story of a conspiracy by a group of show folks to help a girl appear as a great star to her mother, and "A Son Comes Home," a touching drama of mother-love, are undiminished, and so went to far places in search of seclusion. He became a dweller in hotels and, as his fancy directed, he drifted to Sicily and then to North Africa.

"The Garden of Allah" offers Miss Dietrich her most colorful roll to rate as the beautiful Dominica Enfield who flees to the Algerian desert to begin life anew and there meets the handsome and mysterious Boris Androvsky (Charles Boyer) who is actually a Trappist monk who has fled from the Monastery after taking the eternal vows.

A glorious romance develops under the spell of the desert moon and the story proceeds to a gripping climax and an unexpected denouement.

The most ambitious technicolor film ever produced, this Seiznick International picture was directed by Richard Boleslawski from a screen play by W. P. Lipscomb and Lynn Riggs.

Basil Rathbone, C. Audrey Smith, Tilly Losch, the internationally famous dancer, and Joseph Schildkraut are featured in the supporting cast which also includes John Carradine, Alan Marshal, Lucille Watson and Henry Brandon.

Like many another great work of genius, "The Garden of Allah," the immortal desert romance which David O. Seiznick has lately turned into a technicolor picture with Marlene Dietrich and Charles Boyer in the leading roles, was dependent for its creation upon an illness suffered by its author. In

LILY PONS IN OLD GUNSMITH LATEST FILM IS HERO OF FILM AT STATE

Again the golden voice of the world's premier coloratura soprano Lily Pons, comes to the screen. The little opera star's second motion picture, "That Girl From Paris," opened today at the Fox Broadway theater.

Starred with the vivacious French prima donna are Gene Raymond and Jack Oakie and Herman Bing, Mischa Auer, Frank Jenks, Lucille Ball, besides other well known mirth-provokers, are seen in supporting roles.

In addition Manager Lester J. Fountain has signed as a co-feature, "King of Hockey," with Ann Nagel and Dick Purcell. A Mickey Mouse in color, "On Ice," has been rebuked by request.

The music in "That Girl From Paris" is Miss Pons' abetted by Oakie, Raymond and a jazz band. Miss Pons, Raymond, Oakie and Gregory Gaye are the centers of the romantic interest. Reneging on her marriage to Gaye, Miss Pons attaches herself to the Oakie-Raymond orchestra in France and, as a stowaway, she reaches America. She also gets the boys in hot water with the immigration officers. As the star attraction in Bing's roadhouse floor show, she is in love with Raymond. She walks out on the boys who cut cards to carry her and thus prevent her deportation. When she is an opera diva about to make a successful debut, Oakie contrives a ridiculous situation again to save Miss Pons from Gaye and marry her to Raymond.

Miss Pons' melodic repertoire is a delight for all classes of music lovers. Among her vocalizations are three popular airs by Arthur Schwartz and Edward Heyman, "Seal It With a Kiss," "My Nephew From Nice" and "Call to Arms." Strauss' immortal "Blue Danube Waltz" and Rossini's grand opera aria, "Una Voce Poco Fa," from the "Barber of Seville," also are outstanding numbers on her repertoire.

return, it secured for him undying fame.

Manager Lester J. Fountain has booked "The Garden of Allah" for four days at the Fox Broadway theater, starting January 17.

Because of a nervous affliction, the novelist, Robert Hichens, found the endless noise and hurry of life unendurable, and so went to far places in search of seclusion. He became a dweller in hotels and, as his fancy directed, he drifted to Sicily and then to North Africa.

"The Garden of Allah" offers Miss Dietrich her most colorful roll to rate as the beautiful Dominica Enfield who flees to the Algerian desert to begin life anew and there meets the handsome and mysterious Boris Androvsky (Charles Boyer) who is actually a Trappist monk who has fled from the Monastery after taking the eternal vows.

Basil Rathbone, C. Audrey Smith, Tilly Losch, the internationally famous dancer, and Joseph Schildkraut are featured in the supporting cast which also includes John Carradine, Alan Marshal, Lucille Watson and Henry Brandon.

"Straight From the Shoulder," a romantic drama built around the famous gunsmith character of Saturday Evening Post stories, J. M. Pyne, will be screened at the State theater Sunday and Monday. Ralph Bellamy, Katherine Locke, Andy Clyde and David Holt have the leading roles. The plot concerns the identification of a group of killers by an artist and their effort to get even. Many thrilling moments ensue.

The second feature is "California Trail," with Buck Jones and Helen Mack. It is a story of the old West with romance, thrills and fast action.

An interesting short subject completes the program.

'GOLD DIGGERS' POPULAR FILM AT WEST COAST

Every two years there is presented to the movie-fans of the world, under the generic title of "Gold Diggers," a big and merry melange of rich comedy, songs that become hits, and pretty, fast-stepping dancing girls by the hundreds.

"Gold Diggers of 1937," the current edition, opened at the Fox West Coast theater yesterday, and sent a succession of highly-pleased audiences homeward with smiles on their faces and the hum of gay music on their lips.

Dick Powell and Joan Blondell are the stars. It will be an unforgettable picture for both of them, because it was during the making of this big musical that their courtship was conducted. And it was on the day after their last scene together that they were married and started honeymooning.

A life insurance company suddenly finds itself in the show business, with the wild agent, Dick Powell, aided by Joan Blondell, Glenda Farrell, Lee Dixon and Rosalind Marquis, trying to keep Victor Moore, $1,000,000 policyholder, alive, while the heavens, Osgood Perkins and Charles D. Brown, seek to finish him.

About that promise is woven the laugh-provoking comedy, the dancing, culminating in a black and white military silhouette scene which is an elaborate feature of the production.

Moore almost steals the show as he introduces a new character in the "Gold Diggers" series. Miss Marquis and Dixon are excellent, and the standbys, Powell, Miss Blondell and Miss Farrell, measure up to their previous work. Perkins and Brown add pace to the story as the pair of chiselers out after Moore. William Davidson, as a motto-slinging insurance executive, contributes a high caliber performance.

Ceremonial Rites Serve To Install D. U. V. Staff

Accepting invitation of Sons of Union Veterans to hold joint installation of officers with them last night in Modern Woodman hall, Sarah A. Rounds Tent No. 10, D. U. V. placed Mrs. Beren Baker in the presidency with appropriate ceremonies, and with her a list of capable officers to conduct the work of the tent through the coming year.

Flags which included the state banner and the Bear flag with the Stars and Stripes, made a blaze of color at the altar where obligations were administered. Flowers added their grace to the scene, and later were presented various department officers and members of the incoming official staffs of both the Sons and the Daughters.

For installation of tent officers, the staff working with Mrs. Emma Strain of Los Angeles, department president, and her guide and musician, Mrs. Mattie Stringer of Pasadena, department secretary, and Mrs. Bessie Lincoln of Long Beach, department musician, was drawn from Long Beach, Los Angeles, Pasadena, Fullerton and other Southland tents.

The ritualistic work was so conducted that in one phase, the room was darkened, and the officers formed a cross whose outline was defined by the lights flashing from their flower clusters. At this point Mrs. Blanche Owens sang "The Old Rugged Cross," following a Santa Ana tent tradition established when Mrs. Lena Hewitt was installed as president in 1931.

Other musical numbers on the program included the songs, "On Aky Pinions" and "A Water Lily," sung by the trio formed by Mrs. Owens, Mrs. Harry N. Hayes and Miss Lella Rittner with Miss Lenora Tompkins as accompanist; piano accordion number, "My Wild Irish Rose," by Bobby Heil, nephew of the new president, Mrs. Baker; piano solos by her grandniece, Betty Williamson, who played "Dance of the Rosebuds" (Keech) and "Would You?" (from "San Francisco"); and violin numbers by Jimmie Mercereau.

Officers installed for the Daughters included with Mrs. Baker, president, Mesdames Ella Smith and Fannie Nau, senior and junior vice presidents; Grace Benjamin, chaplain; Esther Gardner, treasurer; Lucella Hill, secretary; Thelma Williamson, guide; Lena Hewitt, press correspondent; Jessie Overton, Nettie Griswold and Florence Perry, council; Clara McCord, patriotic instructor; Florence Price, guard; Nellie Parker, assistant guard; Pearl Nelson, Anna Shifflin, Anna Cozad and Jessie Hoagland, color bearers, and Carrie Seaton, musician.

To Mrs. Jessie Overton, just completing a successful year in the presidency, was presented her past president's pin with the small recognition pin, and in her honor was sung the number, "End of a Perfect Day" with the word year substituted for day.

Nearly a hundred and fifty members and guests were present, and special arrangements were made for the refreshment hour in the dining room. The table from which serving was accomplished was very lovely with its white pottery, its flowers and candles.

Special guest honors were accorded four visiting Civil War veterans, Comrades Wood and Collins of Orange, Hill of West Los Angeles, and Williams, a visiting veteran. Other distinguished guests of the Daughters with the installing officers included Mrs. Lydia Perfield, council member No. 1; Mrs. Lena Gulick Hewitt of the National organization committee for California and the seven western states; Mrs. Nellie Parker, department historian; Mrs. Rowena Grout, department chaplain (the latter three of Sarah A. Rounds tent); and Mrs. Lottie Turner of Pasadena, past department president of auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans, and department secretary this year.

Wait A Minute

Didn't you have a grand and glorious feeling at the Nelson Eddy concert? Most of us were there, weren't we? Beautiful and inspiring as it was, it had an amusing side which we shall have to tell you—if you promise cross your heart not to tell. You know how all the students flocked to the stage door to see their idol and secure his autograph? Well, backstage were Walter (H. S. Stagecraft Teacher) Prill and some of his satellites, drinking in "atmosphere," absorbing "actual experience" and generally impressed. When Baritone Eddy stalked from the stage after one of his groups and spied Teacher Prill, he commanded, "Get me a drink of water, please!" Since Teacher Prill is bountifully supplied with a sense of humor, he answered not a word, but quietly produced the coveted aqua pura. But even his sense of humor was astounded when Baritone Eddy pulled from that impeccable dress coat of his with quite the longest tails ever seen on the local stage, a crisp dollar bill as a tip for Teacher Prill! What happened? Gather close my children and you shall hear. Teacher Prill turned to his pop-eyed satellites and said "Here, children, is a dollar bill. Get it changed and divide it. Then you'll always have something to cherish as coming from the great Nelson Eddy HIMSELF."

Before we leave the subject of these concerts, here is some very special information interesting in a different way from that pricelessly bit we just revealed. . . . Earl (Pianist-Composer) Fraser has just completed a composition for the piano in response to a flattering request from Homer Simmons, soon to appear on one of the Artist Series programs here, for a number which he will play here in Fraser's home town, and incorporate in his concert programs. And if that isn't a case of home-town-boy-making-good, we don't know nuthin' . . . Snow for everybody . . . Franklin (Jr. Lion) Guthrie and Sister Dorothy (U.C.) playing in the drifts en route to Baldy . . . Frederick (Teacher-Doc) Schroeder getting himself snowed in up at the mountains . . . John (Ins.) Neal (Register) Shaw choosing the top of First Nat'l Bank where he strolled like the girl at Niagara Falls, drinking it all in . . . Harry (Cashier) Hanson maintaining that the greatest joy was driving down from Modjeska's Canyon with the air filled with great fluffy flakes just like Way Down East . . . Speakin' o' banks, its great to see Perry (Teller) McAdoo smiling from his window at First Nat'l, at full of fresh veal and zigor after his tedious months of illness . . . And didja see the crowds at the banks on the first Sat'dy of 1937, waiting to deposit Crismus checks?

Mrs. Ebert was escorted East, and was presented with a bouquet of flowers as well as other gifts. NEEDLES FLY

Native Daughters of the Golden West Thimble club met yesterday for an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Carl Schroeder on Lincoln street, with a covered dish luncheon at noon.

The afternoon was spent in sewing to finish several orders that had been made. But the center of attraction was Mrs. Schroeder's baby, James, who has been adopted by the Native Daughters as their special Native Son. During the afternoon, Mrs. Schroeder played and sang several numbers.

Mrs. W. A. West, Mrs. W. H. Mize and Mrs. Walter Hiseky attended installation rites of the Long Beach parlor last night.

Orange Home Is Scene Of Bridal Event

Guests assembled last night in the home of Mrs. Hugo Lembke, 1174 West Palm street, Orange, showered wedding congratulations and gifts on the hostess' sister-in-law, Mrs. Edgar B. Lembke, who was Miss Madeline Walsh preceding her marriage December 30, 1936, in Long Beach.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Walsh, eastern residents who are spending the winter in Long Beach, is a teacher in West Orange school. Her husband is architect with the Liggett Lumber company in Santa Ana. He is son of prominent Orange residents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Lembke.

Hostesses for last night's post-nuptial event were Mrs. Hugo Lembke and her sister-in-law, Miss Althea Lembke, who had arranged the party as a surprise to the honoree. Master Dee-Dee Lembke presented a lovely corsage bouquet of gardenias to the bride, and clusters of pink sweet peas to Mrs. Walsh and Mrs. H. G. Lembke, mothers of the newly-married young people.

Mrs. H. G. Lembke assisted her daughters-in-law in carrying out plans for the party, for which all decorative details were in green and white. Bridge and bunko were the games of the evening, with prizes going to Miss Mildred Maroney, Mrs. Alvin Drumm and Mrs. Julius Kusel, who held the highest scores, and the honor guest, low.

Sprays of lilies of the valley were entwined at the noses of candlesticks which held tall white tapers centering tables at the refreshment hour. Chicken a la king comprised the first course, followed by the serving of individual cakes and ice cream molds designed with green wedding bells. A green and white motif was evident in all appointments.

In the group with the honoree, Mrs. Edgar B. Lembke, of Orange, and her mother, Mrs. William Walsh, of Long Beach, were three other Long Beach residents, Miss Mildred Maroney, Mrs. Hubert Matthews and Mrs. Ralph Hill; Mrs. Wilbert Buescher, Mrs. Alvin Drumm, Santa Ana; Mrs. Edward Scates (Sally Lee Scates), Los Angeles; Mesdames Stewart White, Karl Glasbrenner, Julius Kusel and the Misses Rachel Williams and Lucille West, Orange; Miss Janice West, Capistrano; Mrs. Edgar Maahs, Anaheim; the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. H. G. Lembke, the Misses Hilda, Lucille and Lorraine Lembke and the two hostesses, Mrs. Hugo Lembke and Miss Althea Lembke.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Lembke are residing at 106 North Center street, Orange.

MRS. GEORGE H. WALKER

MRS. CLAUDE J. NORTON

MRS. GEORGE H. WALKER Home, social and club interests provide busy days for Mrs. George H. Walker, 2425 Valencia street, with her own small daughter Margaret (named for her two grandmothers, Mrs. Margaret Barnes and Mrs. Edward Walker), receiving the most of her attention. Just at present, Mrs. Walker has the responsibility of planning the annual spring fashion show and bridge tournament of Junior Ebell society, having been appointed as general chairman, and the man in preparation for that early spring event. She and Mr. Walker are members of Tux and Gown and other social groups of the city.

Although the marriage of Miss Katherine Lucille Ireland and Claude James Norton was an event of August 26 in San Francisco, it was not until the Christmas holidays that announcement of the ceremony was made. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Ireland, 813 Lacy street, and the bridegroom is son of the Claude Nortons of this city.

Federated Clubwomen Interested In Official Candidates

Clubwomen of this city will be interested in learning that Mrs. Grace Y. Hudson of Pasadena has tendered her resignation from the nominating committee of the California federation of Women's clubs, following notification that she had been endorsed by 15 of the necessary 20 clubs for the post of vice-president in the federation.

Her candidacy is practically assured as the federation board meeting in Fresno denied official endorsement of Mrs. George A. Riggs of Oakland because the Alameda district representatives, Mrs. Thomas H. Martinez, was not at the board meeting. Mrs. Martin Newell of San Francisco was appointed to the vacancy created by Mrs. Hudson's withdrawal, and Mrs. B. E. Warner of Ontario, well known in this city where she is a frequent guest in the home of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. George A. Warner, were elected chairman of the group.

While the candidates for office have not yet been publicly announced it has been indicated that Mrs. Duncan S. Robinson of Rio Vista is slated for the presidency to succeed Mrs. W. D. James of Hanford.

Mrs. Robinson's executive ability is recognized throughout the state. She has served both as county president and as president of the San Francisco district federation and for the past two years has been auditor in the state federation at the same time serving as chairman of program service and itineraries. Fine arts and legislation are her chief interests and she has addressed Southland clubs as frequently as those of the northern sections.

Final report of the nominating committee will be made following a May meeting in Coronado.

Robert E. Lee Dinner Plans Are Under Way

Tuesday, January 19, is bringing that day that is held in such reverence by all Southerners, the anniversary of Robert E. Lee's birthday, and in Santa Ana in common with all communities where there is a chapter of Daughters of the Confederacy, the day will be recognized with special ceremonies.

The annual Robert E. Lee dinner is always an anticipated event by Emma Sanson chapter members and their families, and its observance this year will be staged with that same attention to detail that has always characterized it. Plans are well under way for the noon dinner hour and the patriotic program to follow, all to be staged in the educational building of First Christian church, where many of the local observances have been held.

Mrs. Clara Duggan, telephone 1055 W. or Mrs. T. J. Houghton, 641 W. are accepting reservations for the birthday dinner itself, which will feature a roast turkey and Southern style dishes to be prepared by the Aid society of the host church. A very nominal price has been set for the tickets, which should be reserved well in advance of the date.

Program features are not yet completed, but it is generally understood that Attorney R. E. Tarver, himself a true son of Dixie, will be one of the speakers.

All Details of Party Are Worked Out on Clever Theme

Homophenous club members' first social affair since the advent of 1937, was the gayest of "elephant parties" which found setting earlier this week in the lovely home of the Joe Lowells at 225 North Olive street.

The serving of refreshments formed the first event of interest in the evening, and the party theme was applied to this feature, with tea poured from an elephant teapot, and bonbons and salted nuts passed in elephant candy dishes. Even the scarlet and white sweet peas of table decorations were clustered in elephant jars, while score pads and tally cards bore the same design in deep red.

Opening of the be-ribboned white elephant package preceded the introduction of bridge and anagrams, and there was much merriment over the oddly assorted gifts. Later when Mrs. George Nash and Miss Marion Walker proved to hold high scores, they were privileged to make their selection from the array of white elephants.

Mrs. Lowell was assisted by Mrs. George Nash and Mrs. Ruth Smith, in all hostess duties of the evening. Others present including Mrs. Anna Price Crawford, and her sister, Mrs. Barber who recently arrived from Louisiana for a Santa Ana visit, Mrs. Harvey Groover, Miss Marion Walker, Mrs. W. F. Rurup, Mrs. E. H. Lamb, Mrs. Sid. Rurup, Santa Ana; Mrs. Andrew Wilson, Costa Mesa, and Mrs. Henry Schaffert, Orange.

Santa Anans Observe Anniversary in North

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mullis, 842 Riverine avenue, are enjoying a several weeks' stay in northern California, where they will celebrate their 53rd wedding anniversary January 27.

The Santa Anans are dividing the time between the homes of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H.K. Thompson of Wilton; another son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sutton, and a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Mullis of Delavan.

A family celebration in the Thompson home will mark the anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Mullis, who usually observe the January date with an open house affair in this city.

SOCIETIES / CLUBS / WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

One Act To Be Succeeded By Play Try-Outs

In delegating to the Misses Mabel Frutt and Agnes Brady, all responsibility for planning the January program for Santa Ana Community Players' association, Mrs. John Swarthout, Barn chairman, named two dependable members of the association. And they have responded with interesting plans for the next Tuesday night's meeting in The Barn on Mabury street.

Their entertainment will include both the usual one-act play and music. For the former, they will have co-operation of Ernest Crozier Phillips and his J. C. drama class, a group from which will present the one-act, "The Woman Who Understood Men." For music they will introduce Nelson Rogers, baritone, who has promised a group of solos with Miss Lizette Phillips as accompanist.

Program features will be followed by the usual hot coffee and sandwiches and this social interval will be followed in turn by what promises interest for participants and spectators alike, try-outs for the approaching Community play, "The Importance of Being Earnest."

Initial try-outs for parts in the play were held last night in The Barn but no roles were definitely filled. The play is essentially English in theme and development, and while there will be no attempt to give it with a true English accent on the part of the players, special care with regard to diction is almost a requirement on the part of those to be chosen for parts.

Family Group Holds Reunion In G. A. Bradley Home

Recent arrival of relatives from the east makes possible a family reunion which is taking place today and tomorrow in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bradley, 702 Cypress avenue, where the holiday spirit prevails as hospitality is extended to a large group of guests.

The gathering is in the nature of a farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Switzer and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bradley of Waterloo, Ia., who are leaving Sunday night for the chamber of commerce tour of Mexico. They plan to be gone for two weeks, returning to Santa Ana to visit with the family group before going back to their homes in Iowa.

Mrs. Switzer is a sister, and A. L. Bradley a cousin of G. A. Bradley. Making the trip to California a few weeks ago, the Iowa residents were accompanied by Mrs. Josephine Bradley, of Kimball, Neb. Mrs. Bradley, who is 86 years of age, is enjoying thoroughly this reunion with her family, and is a guest in the home of her son and daughter-in-law, the G. A. Bradleys.

Four Generations Although Mrs. Bradley is a frequent visitor in Southern California, this is her first trip in five years' time, and she is getting acquainted with some new members of the family. These include her great-grandchildren, Master John Bradley Jr., two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bradley, and little Miss Barbara Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Bradley. So it is that four generations are represented in the week end party.

Heading the family group with Mrs. Josephine Bradley is her sister, Mrs. Sue Westenhaver, of Los Angeles. Present also are Mrs. Bradley's two daughters and son and their families, including Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Rodman, of Kimball, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. Switzer, of Waterloo, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bradley. Cousins of the daughters and son are Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bradley, of Waterloo, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Bradley and son, Robert, Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Westenhaver, of Los Angeles.

In the third generation are Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Crumrine, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Limbaugh, with the two members of the fourth generation, little John Bradley Jr. and Barbara Bradley.

Pasadena Friends Are Guests at Luncheon

An intimate little affair shared by a group of old friends was a luncheon today at which Miss Mary W. Howard, Y. W. C. A. secretary, received guests at Daniger's.

This served as a very special reunion for Miss Howard and one of the group, Miss Mabel E. Schadt of Pasadena, who were associated in Y. W. work several years ago in St. Louis, Mo. For the past few years Miss Schadt and another of today's guests, Mrs. Emma Wright, have been doing Presbyterian Home Missionary work. Both served recently in Albuquerque, N. M., but have come to the Southland to take up residence in Pasadena.

Others in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bray, who live near Pasadena, and the hostess, Miss Howard, with her sister, Miss Harriet Howard of this city.

The Mixing Bowl By Ann Meredith

"That old alibi 'I inherit my fat,' beloved by fat people, and supposed to be argument proof up to now, has been shot so full of holes this last year, it could be used for mosquito netting!"

Supervised diet, with medication or otherwise, as determined by one's physician, will reduce weight even in the worst cases of overweight attributed to mal-adjusted endocrine glands. A lot of this ugly fat does come from this mal-adjustment, but most of it comes from the inability of the fat person to say "No" and stay with it.

A diet, built for YOUR particular case, and a strong will, can remove the mountain of weight you hate. Can you take it?

Our Safe and Sane diet can help start you on your road to slimmest and your doctor will approve of it unless you have some organic ailment.

In plain English: if you are too fat just because your eyes are bigger than your stomach, this diet of ours can and will do wonders for you if given a chance. Write for it, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

REV. B. H. BLANCHAR

"The Gospel of Christ"

Text: Galatians 1:3-9.

The Gospel of Christ is simply the good news concerning Christ. The law was given by Moses, but grace and truth, that is, the favor and exact expression of God, came by Jesus Christ. (John 1:17-18.)

But what is offered to men in this Gospel? "He gave Himself for our sins" (v. 4), therefore we have FORGIVENESS. Here we have God's best, in contact with man's worst. The Holiest One in heaven, with the foulest thing on earth. What must sin be in the eyes of God, when it took the life and death, and all the wealth of the character of His own son to put it away? Now in Him we have redemption through His blood, and the Forgiveness of Sins. (Eph. 1:7.)

We also have DELIVERANCE (v. 4), "That He might deliver us from this present evil age." Although forgiven and justified, we are still here in the midst of all the evils of this present age, and need to be delivered and continually kept from their enthrallment. "He is able to keep us from falling."

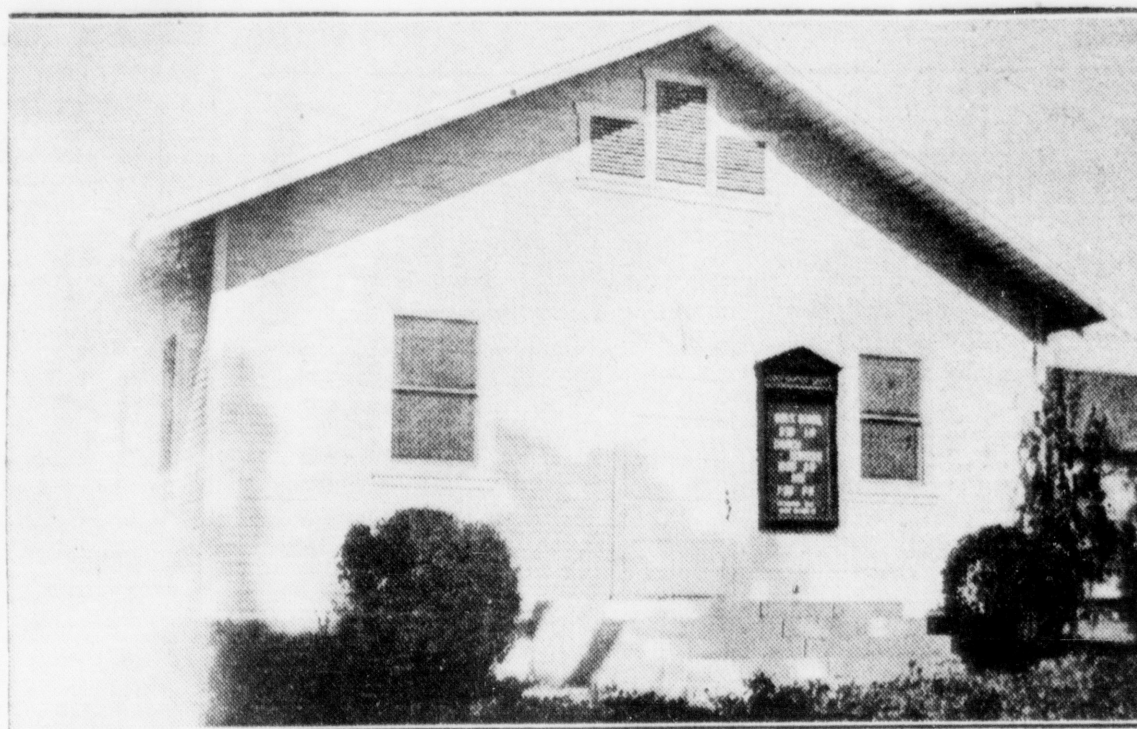

We not only have Forgiveness and Deliverance, but we have GRACE AND PEACE (v. 3). Grace sufficient to meet your every need, and the Peace of God to keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus. (Phil. 4:7.)

COME TO CHURCH

The Church is the meeting place for God and His People

A SERMONETTE "COME TO CHURCH CAMPAIGN"

By B. H. BLANCHAR, Pastor
First Baptist Church, Brea

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH — BREA

But how are these blessings to be received? How can I make sure they are mine? "Him that called you into the grace of Christ" (v. 6). The Gospel brings God's call to the soul to enter into the full enjoyment of the grace abounding which is in Christ Jesus. There is no other way but by the obedience of faith. You believe the message, you obey the call, and the grace of God does all the rest. (1 John 3:5.) "He is faithful that promised."

In (v. 7) we see there are some who would pervert this Gospel of Christ. How can this Gospel be perverted? The Gospel in itself cannot be perverted; it is always and everywhere the same. But it can be so misrepresented that the minds and thoughts of men may get a very distorted view of its real character. The Judaizer taught that they must be circumcised to receive the full benefits of the Gospel of Christ. We Gentiles are not concerned about being circumcised; but there are many who think that they ought to be compromised, that God will save them because of their moral character and good works. This is a perverted view of the Gospel of Christ. Anything we can do, or be, will never add any value to the saving grace of God in Christ Jesus. "While we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." (Rom. 5:8.) Therefore it is by faith that it might be by grace. (Rom. 4:16.) "The gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord."

There is no other way. "Though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other Gospel, let him be accursed." (v. 8, v. 9.) Neither the wisdom of the ages, nor all time, nor eternity, will ever produce another Gospel whereby sinful men — without the grace of God in Jesus Christ His son — can be saved. "There is none other name under heaven given among men whereby ye can be saved." (Acts 4:12.) Jesus said: "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life; no man cometh unto the Father but by Me. He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life, and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him." (John 3:36.) Believest thou this?

Presbyterian Church Builds New Edifice

The members of the First Presbyterian Church realize that the way to a unified congregation is through a definite purpose. They are building a new Home, a building which will be the center of all their activities.

Their Auditorium will seat 900; that in itself is an invitation but the part which seems equally important is their dining room and recreation hall.

The dining room is the place where people mingle freely; where common interests are discovered. Nothing is more conducive to the common weal than for a group of women to prepare the meal, set the tables and arrange the decorations together, and then to watch a waiting and hungry crowd enjoy their efforts.

The recreation hall is the focal point for the younger set, where they find both physical and spiritual relaxation and enjoyment. All healthy young people seek enjoyment and to my way of reasoning it should be found within the confines of their church.

Community values are determined by the number of its churches — ours has jumped many points.

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein

THE portrait of Gen. Phil H. Sheridan, the Postoffice Department advises, will appear with those of Generals Grant and Sherman on the forthcoming 3-cent army stamp.

The Philatelic Agency at Washington has withdrawn the 8-cent airmail stamp, first issued in 1932, from sale. The San Diego and Boulder Dam stamps may follow soon.

It took three days to mail the thousands of first day covers with the 1-cent Army and Navy stamps, but all covers got the same cancellation, set at 8 a. m., Jan. 15.

Italy has issued a new postage series portraying King Emmanuel at "Rex et Imperator," king and emperor.

A new series of "international" stamps may result from a conference of delegates from Rumania, Czechoslovakia, Yugo-Slavia, Turkey, and Greece. These representatives, meeting in Bucharest recently, considered a proposal for a distinct set of stamps that would be valid in all five countries.

Despite rise in price for the four stamps issued during the short reign of King Edward VIII, England has continued printing these stamps at the rate of 20,000,000 a day. The stamps, therefore, have little investment value. (Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

brother, H. Bowman of Hot Springs, Ark., and a sister, and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Heffley of Five Points were guests at a dinner party in the Bowman home this week. Within a few days Mrs. Bowman expects her mother and sister to arrive from Tennessee.

Milton Butcher of Bisbee, Ariz., is a guest this week in the home of Mrs. Martha Wells. Mrs. Wells' son, C. B. Wells of El Paso, Tex., and a friend, Bryce Duggan of Carrizozo, New Mexico, left Monday for their respective homes following a holiday visit here. Mr. Wells is connected with the Southern Pacific railroad in Texas.

Betty Jane McKenzie entertained several friends at a theater party in Long Beach. Included among the guests were Jessie Chase, Phyllis Bruce, Ruth Brown and LaRae Forner.

Mrs. Harriette Dowdy of Huntington Beach, formerly of this section, was a guest, Monday of Mrs. Sarah Hodgins.

School News

Frances Willard

Public Buildings

Miss Libby's low nine art class is now carrying on an outstanding project. Each day an outstanding building is visited and pencil sketches are made. Monday Bowers Memorial museum was visited, Tuesday, the court house annex, and Wednesday Saint Joseph hospital. Further trips are planned, it is understood.

The class includes Leila Brown, Dorothy Keely, Mary Lynch, Carroll Miller, Patricia Draper, Martha Horsemann, Lanora Lewis, Jessie Isparza, Eva Faye Smock and Roy Reynolds.

Attendance Clerk

Miss Margaret Ragsdale, a graduate of Willard in 1930, has returned to assume the position of attendance clerk, left vacant by the resignation of Mrs. Beverly Rimel. Miss Ragsdale is a graduate of Santa Ana Junior college. Before accepting her present position she was with a life insurance company.

Dramatic Skits

Dramatics are being studied in Miss Elliott's L7Q class. The girls have been giving skits from "Little Women" while the boys have been giving skits from "Tom Sawyer." These playlets are enjoyed immensely by the pupils and teacher and are considered educational.

Latin Notebooks

Latin students are getting their notebooks ready for this quarter to be handed in on January 15. The students are required to hand in a notebook containing five Latin phrases, five identicals, and twenty-five derivatives each quarter.

The classes get their material from newspapers, magazines, books and other printed matter. Mrs. Budd expressed her satisfaction with notebooks turned in the last quarter.

Motion Pictures

A seventh grade assembly was held last Friday, sponsored by Mr. Schmid, Miss Libby, and Mr. Froeschle. The entire program was composed of silent moving pictures from the National Film library. It included one educational film, one travel film, and one comedy cartoon. The pictures were to have been sound, but the sound equipment was tied up during the strike.

Orchestra Plans

The advanced orchestra started with 15 members now increased to 25. Future goals are 35 members next semester and 45 next year, it is understood.

"Due to the fine co-operation of the school board the instrumental department has grown considerably," said Mr. Michel. Instruments have been purchased by the board which are available to students wishing instrumental instruction. As a result the seventh grade orchestra has a membership of 25, who will become members of the advanced orchestra next year.

In Trophy Case

Willard pupils find pride in the numerous awards exhibited in the trophy case in the front hall. Among them are the Orange County Fair cups for 1929 and 1930; the Morse trophy for track, given by the letterman's club of Santa Ana High school, and the perpetual track cup also given by the Letterman's club.

Exhibited is a cup won by the Girls' Glee club in 1927. Proudly displayed are the two blue ribbons and one red taken at the garden show. The Fire Prevention cup for 1922, 1933, and 1934 graces the exhibit.

The three certificates of award recently captured by the Echo at the Santa Maria convention, are prominently displayed.

Textile Studies

The ninth grade clothing class, instructed by Miss Greene, has been studying textile fibers this week. Among them were cotton, wool, silk, linen, and rayon.

They are taking several tests of the materials. The most interesting of these is the burning test, in which students observe the flame, test the odor, and test the ashes. The girls also have been looking at different fibers under the microscope and comparing them.

Another interesting test was the examining of blonde, brunette, and auburn hairs under the microscope and comparing them with wool.

The class also has had the pleasure of having still pictures on the subject which were furnished by the courtesy of the film department of education.

Sign Language

A special assembly, Wednesday, January 6, at 1:45 p. m., was given for the benefit of the students. The program, which featured William Tomkins in a talk on Indian sign language, was interesting and educational. He dwelt upon the teaching of nearly 50 hand signs and he also showed the students a story in Indian signs. He gave a lecture here three years ago, and his return engagement was quite as entertaining.

Many of Willard's Boy Scouts who wished to qualify for their sign language merit badge, attended the meeting. All students attending reported to their sixth period class and were then excused to go to the assembly.

Opening Dance

The first of the ninth grade Girl Reserves "Bid Dances" will be given January 15, at the Y. W. C. A. rooms. All couples attending must have a ticket that may be purchased from any ninth grade Girl Reserve. A ninth grade girl or boy may purchase a ticket and ask any other boy or girl, no matter what grade he or she is in.

The dance room will be gaily decorated in blue and white, which are both Willard and Girl Reserve colors. Music will be furnished by the Willard popular orchestra, directed by Mr. Michel. It will be strictly a sport dance and no stags allowed. Miss Anderson, leader, said. These dances are expected to be continued each month.

PASTOR LEAVES PULPIT TO GET IN LABOR FIGHT

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Four years ago Homer S. Martin was Baptist minister here. Friends predicted a successful future for him as a clergyman. He was young, enthusiastic, personable. Because he was the national hop-step-and-jump champion, they called him "The Leaping Parson."

Today he has jumped into the forefront of an industrial struggle that may affect American industry for generations. He is international president of the United Automobile Workers. In that position, he sits at the right hand of John L. Lewis and helps direct far-flung efforts to sign collective bargaining contracts with the nation's motor car magnates.

He quit the clergy because he found it impossible to "fight the battle of labor as it should be fought as a minister." Assistants say his rise as a labor leader was achieved by tenacity and intelligence. He is 44 years old, a teetotaler, and on occasions since leaving the ministry has been known to use vigorous language.

Scholarly in Appearance

He little resembles the caricatured labor leader of other years. He is mild mannered, scholarly, fluent. Long devoted to economics, he believes the "lot of the worker must and can be improved."

It makes him angry when newspapers describe him as a radical. "I'm a progressive," he said. "There is a world of difference. This union is not trying to overthrow the motor car companies. It is necessary that a strong union be formed for the protection of the workers. We have no desire to hurt the companies, because it is where the workers make their living. We believe, however, higher standards for the workers are imperative."

He said his first realization of the "terrible conditions" confronting many workers came when he served five years as a missionary in the West Bottoms industrial district of Kansas.

New Ideals Formed

"I took my labor doctrines to the church," he said. "If even had labor organizers talk in the church, I learned I could not successfully wage the fight for labor—giving it adequate energy—while a minister."

When more than 500 workmen at the Fisher body plant of the Chevrolet Motor company participated in a strike at Kansas City recently, they almost daily heard Martin's voice over telephone loud-speaker arrangement from Detroit, urging them to continue the strike. Most of the men remembered him as a leader of their strike at the Fisher Body and Chevrolet plants in the spring of 1934.

When Martin quit the pulpit, he entered the Fisher Body plant as a worker on the assembly line. Early in 1934, he helped organize the United Automotive Workers Local No. 93, and was chosen the organization's first vice president.

Refused Pastorate Offer

Martin and several other workers lost their jobs two months later. He rejected the offer of another pastorate and became a central figure in strikes at the plant that spring.

He devoted his full time to union work when the strike was settled. He left here in 1935 and assumed a position at international headquarters of the union in Chicago. He was elected international president at South Bend, Ind., last April.

Martin was graduated from William Jewell college at Liberty, Mo. He was one of the outstanding track athletes the school has produced. He wishes he still had time to devote to track.

"I'm too old to do any good," Martin said, "but it would be fun."

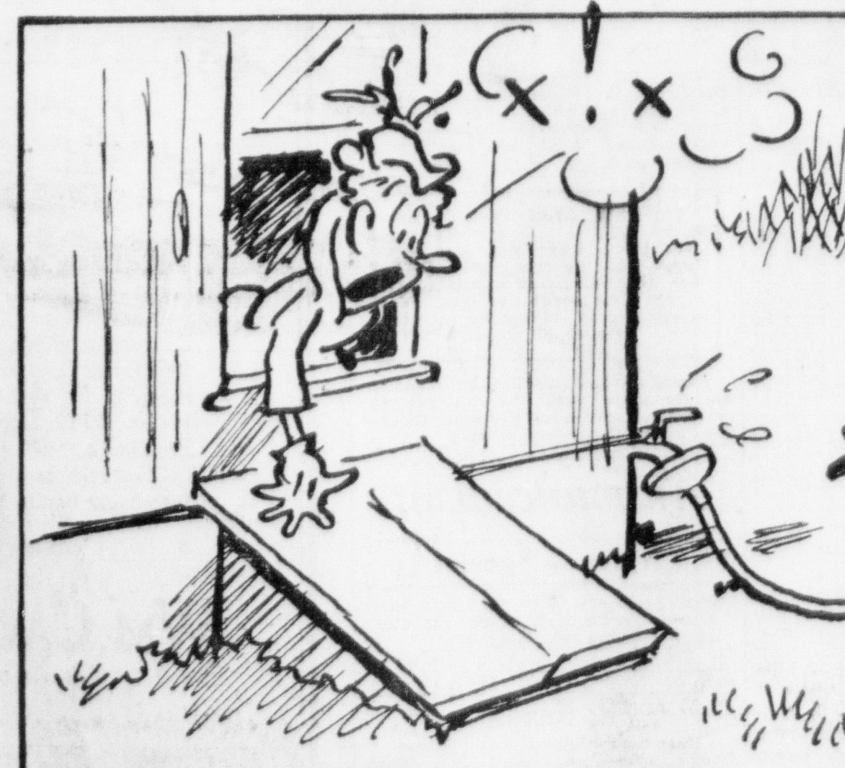

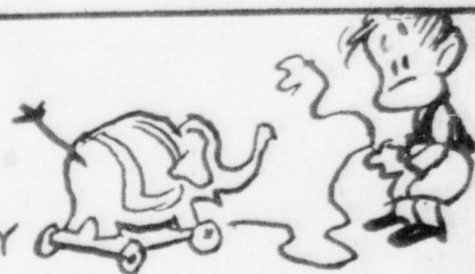

ONE KISS EXCUSABLE

VIENNA, (UP)—One kiss on a park bench is not sufficient to justify a divorce. That is the verdict of the Austrian supreme court in reversing a verdict of the lower court, which had granted a divorce to Henry Hans, 29-year-old fur dealer, who had caught his wife kissing a "stranger" in a Vienna park.

HOW FAR PUBLIC ADULT EDUCATION?

The dismissal of Glenn Frank from the University of Wisconsin and the cancellation of Lewis Browne's contract to talk at the public adult education forum, is evidence of the difficulties surrounding adult education at public expense.

Who should have the right to select the speakers when they are paid for by the public? The fact that only a few speakers can be had, makes the selection a paramount and important question. Under a democracy, in the final analysis, it eventually drifts down to the intelligence of the voting majority, when the question gets extremely controversial. No outstanding leadership can be made available because people with foresight are always in the minority. This, of course, means that they will think of the present and not be very far sighted. No one can contend that the majority of people are able to see what will happen before it does happen which, in the final analysis, is about all education really is.

To compel those who can see what will happen before it does happen to finance mediocre thinkers to speak at public forums, instead of adding to the progress of the country, only retard it.

All advancement in the past has always come from individuals with foresight. When the public does not try to take the wealth resulting from foresight and use it to propagandize popular ideas, then different schools of thought which those with foresight think important can thrive and other kinds cannot.

Under public education there is no check up. It is only the kind of institutions that the voting majority thinks important that can be presented.

Public forums, paid at public expense, are entirely too expensive, considering the results they produce. Public libraries are by far the most economical way of making it possible for the great mass of adults to get the part of an education that can be imparted by the spoken or verbal word. Anyone who really wants to become informed, with the local, state and national libraries, can do so, if he or she has the ability and the inclination. The pity is that only too few have the inclination and the ability!

WHY NOT FOLLOW SUIT?

Is there any good reason at all, with the statistical records before us, for not giving Police Chief George Saers of San Diego, a pat on the back, and then trying out, in a vigorous way, his method of combatting accidents?

If there is any good reason, then we would like to hear it—or see it in black and white. With practically every community in California registering more traffic deaths in 1936 than in 1935—with Orange county registering 78 traffic deaths last year as against 63 for the year before—what right have we to avoid consideration of any plan which will lessen the terrible toll, a toll which seems as a vague dream to us, sometimes, until our dear friends or members of our families are taken away from us. In 1935, 35,000 persons died in traffic; in 1936, 37,000.

San Diego's record for 1936 decreased 17.1 per cent. That's worth while. For the same year, traffic injuries dropped 25 per cent from 1935—yet the 1935 record was better than the 1934—in San Diego.

In 1936, Chief Saers established a "drunk blockade" wherein drunk driving has been greatly decreased. The chief assigned a special car to make thorough investigation of every vehicular accident and assigned the homicide squad to the duty of making thorough investigation of each accident involving serious injuries.

But more than that, the chief assigned four or five officers to patrol San Diego streets and to set up a blockade here and there, leaving it to the motorists' "guess-work" as to where the four or five officers would be blockading at any given time. The "blockaders", under the plan, stop all motorists who drive that particular way, and "look them over." If they give indications of having been drinking, they are escorted to police headquarters where a more thorough examination is made. If Orange county doesn't think such a plan makes motorists more careful, why doesn't Orange county try the plan? Look at San Diego's record—and think it over!

ORCHIDS FOR SOUTH

One of the excellent records hung up in the year 1936 is the fact that the lynching evil declined substantially. The year saw nine lynchings—and while it may be remarked that that was just nine too many, it should be noticed that it was 11 fewer than 1935's total.

Furthermore, there were 35 cases in which courageous officers of the law prevented attempted lynchings; and 30 of these cases were recorded in the deep south. Altogether, 69 people—all but seven of them colored—were saved from violence at the hands of mobs.

It is cause for congratulation, that record. And it emphasizes a fact which northern critics too often overlook—that the average southern official, supported by the sentiment of his own locality, is aware of his duty and brave enough to carry it out.

Why not make every day a "New Year's Day" in Santa Ana? Each day is bright with new hope and greater opportunity.

DR. MARTIN HERE MONDAY

Dr. Martin, who will speak at the Federal Forum next Monday, says in his book, "Liberty", "Now this matter of placing the individual conscience above the law and the authority of government is something for which I think we should give Christianity credit. * * * This is also the principle which underlies our constitutional guarantees of liberty. For what is a constitution but a polite way of telling governmental authorities that their powers are limited, and that if they exceed these powers and enact certain laws we will not obey them? This principle of making the individual conscience the judge of law, and in last resorts the final justification of disobedience, is psychologically necessary for any free people."

If you do not have time to read his book, go and hear him Monday night. It's free.

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY
DECLINING

A survey has recently been made by a national committee as to the amount of gifts made by private citizens. The important point to learn from the figures made available is that, in 1936, the total private contributions averaged only 2 per cent of every dollar of national income; in spite of returning prosperity the people of the United States registered the smallest percentage of giving since 1925; strange as it seems the depression year of 1932—before federal relief started—produced the highest percentage of giving ever recorded.

It is evident from these figures that the public has decided that the government is responsible for the unfortunate and the helpless and for financing and education.

It is a dangerous condition of thinking to come about, to have the individual feel that he has no personal responsibility for the general welfare of his neighbors and society as a whole.

PROMISE OF BENEFITS

Work of the Radio Technicians Association of Orange county reminds us that television as a practical family convenience is a short step ahead. It also conjures a picture in our mind of the day when "mentovision," or whatever it may be called, shall become a reality.

"Mentovision" will be that strange process by which one human being may be permitted to look into the mind and interpret the thoughts of his fellow man. Tragic or beneficial? That will depend entirely on the progress of the human race. If we remain as selfish, greedy and antagonistic as we have been through the centuries, then such an invention would be both tragic and beneficial.

Tragic from the angle that many of us should be deeply hurt, to say nothing of the rage with which some of us might be overcome. Beneficial from the viewpoint that some of us, seeing ourselves as the other fellow sees us, might do something about whatever condition and aspect in which we find ourselves.

Eugene O'Neill used what we are pleased to name "mentovision" in his "Strange Interlude." In the light of what members of the Radio Technicians now are learning, how long will it be until O'Neill's cruel fantasy becomes a human nightmare?

INTEREST, INTEREST, INTEREST

The United States Treasury's latest move is buying all the newly mined gold in the United States and all the imported gold with borrowed money, from the banks, on which interest is paid. This move is certainly beyond the comprehension of anyone who has ever made any study of the money problem. The move certainly is evidence of the strongest kind that the administration is beginning to see the danger of too much credit extension.

As we understand it, they do not want to issue new money for the gold for the reason that this gold could be used as a base to extend credit to $30 of paper money for every dollar of gold. In order to prevent this excess credit, the government is now borrowing the money from the banks and paying the banks interest, "freezing" the money again, under the ground—in the vaults.

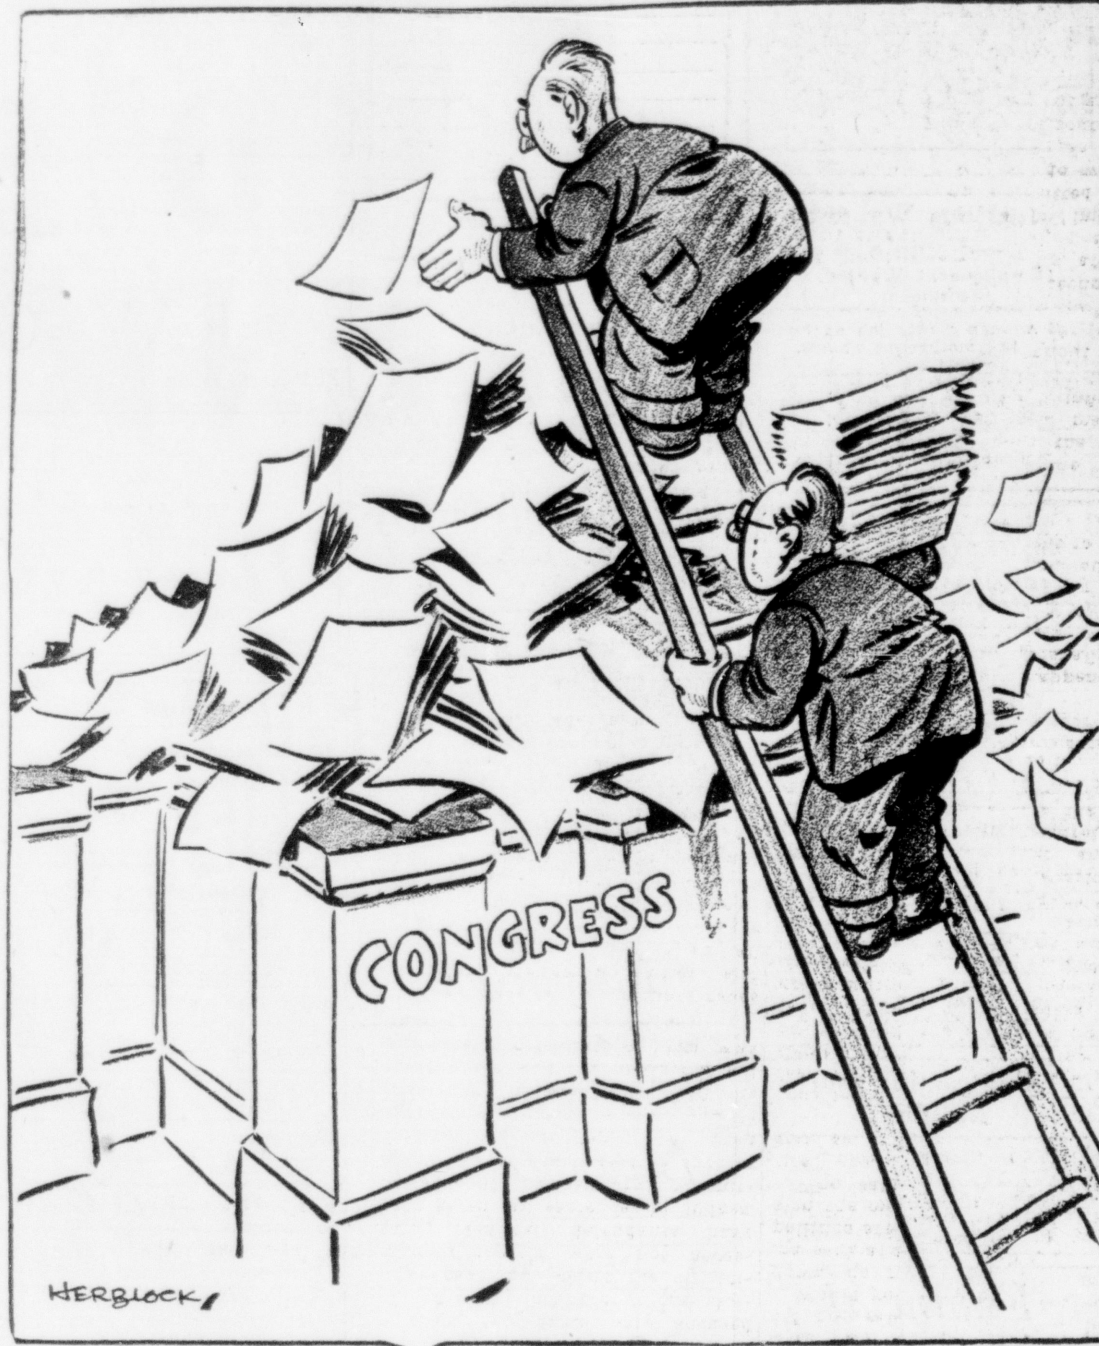

When, by law, we begin to use credit as money as we did years ago, we never know where to stop.

This borrowing of money and paying more and more interest to the banks, instead of issuing new money for the gold, as we have done in the past for many years, is certainly getting our money system farther and farther away from anything of actual value back of it.

The question is how we can measure value without having value back of the measure, any more than we could measure distance without having distance as a measure, or any more than we could measure weight without having weight as a unit of measure.

If there is any one thing we have made a muddle of, it is our money system. The Constitution gave Congress the right to coin and regulate the value of money and yet people want to give Congress more and more control over the lives of our people. It is the exact antithesis of the biblical counsel that, "Thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things".

Editor Register:

In last night's Register in the front page story of the cancellation of Lewis Browne's lectures in Santa Ana a statement was made that was untrue and cannot be allowed to stand. M. B. Wellington is quoted as saying that, in his stand against Browne, he represented the Masons of this city.

There are three Masonic lodges in Santa Ana. Wellington is a member of one of them. He cannot hold membership in nor represent any other Masonic lodge. Being a Mason myself I questioned the truth of Wellington's claim. This morning I am informed by the head of the lodge of which Wellington is a member that he does not represent that lodge nor even a committee of it.

Masonry stands, first, last, and all the time for the broadest education of the American people, and with such a policy, could not oppose a lecturer and educator of the University of California. As such he is appearing in scores of California cities. We must bear in mind that he is known throughout the English speaking world as a writer and philosopher.

O well, Socrates had his pinhead critics as has every thinker since his time.

JURIES AND JUDGES

Editor Register:

Censure of a jury by a judge may induce assumption that the judge must be right and the jury wrong. Such inference may not be justified. Intelligent and impartial investigation and reflection may leave the point still in doubt.

The submission by the judge to the jury of the questions of fact and the decision by them of the place of punishment in a criminal case—the defendant not having voluntarily waived a jury trial—is not an exercise of grace, indulgence, or condescension on the part of the judge; but, instead, is a judicial compliance with the peremptory mandate of the Constitution and Statutes, which recognize and designate trial by jury as the best system devised for the decision of questions of fact in actions at law and in criminal cases; and, in some criminal cases, as the highest means for determining the proper place of imprisonment, in the event of a verdict of guilty.

In the Holiday case, wherein the judge upbraided and reprimanded the jurors for recommending imprisonment in the county jail instead of in the State prison, it was possible for the jury to render any of three verdicts: (1) Not guilty; (2) Guilty, with recommended punishment by imprisonment in the county jail; (3) Guilty, with recommended punishment by imprisonment in the State prison; and they were so instructed by the court. A fourth ultimate result: the granting of probation by the judge, is possible in such cases.

In determining the question of guilt or innocence, and the place of imprisonment in the particular class of cases here involved, the jury, in the first instance, under the Constitution and Statutes is supreme; and the judge is subordinate. The rebuking of the jury by the judge after the rendering of a verdict, therefore, presents the situation of an inferior legal agency publicly exhorting a superior legal instrumentality, in relation to issues no longer in controversy, but which were by the jury definitely settled, pursuant to powers possessed by it alone.

One may possibly receive the impression that no other punishment meets with judicial approval in such cases except imprisonment in State prison. The court records show otherwise. In cases wherein defendants were accused of the crime charged in the Holiday case, but where the circumstances thereof were not necessarily identical, defendants have been given jail sentences by judges, instead of penitentiary commitments. The court records further disclose that probation has been granted by judges where defendants have pleaded guilty of the same crime, and that neither a jail sentence nor a prison term was imposed.

It is important in criminal cases that juries render a verdict and avoid a mistrial. To do so, all twelve jurors must agree. Judges disagree in relation to what decision should be rendered on certain facts and under known applicable laws, whether they act together on a case or separately in similar cases; and it is unreasonable to expect that jurors, upon commencement of their deliberation, will all have the same ideas and identical conclusions as to which witnesses are entitled to be believed or as to what weight should be given to their testimony. Discussion, honest argument and reconciliation of views are frequently essential. If juries are censurable by the judges upon rendering verdicts, it may prevent fair and thorough argument among the jurors and possible agreement, if some of them have observed inclinations of the judge during the trial, and are apprehensive of a reprimand.

In the Holiday case it is reported that some of the jurors voted for acquittal at the outset; but after presumably fair discussion and argument they all agreed upon a verdict of guilty, and upon a recommendation of a jail sentence not exceeding one year, rather than a penitentiary imprisonment, rendering possible a fifty year sentence. The jury's verdict in the case is comparable with judgments imposed by judges in similar cases on pleas of guilty.

The chief possible infirmities of reprimands of jurors by judges following a verdict are: First, they may generate the unfounded public belief that jurors do not stand for law and order or for a high standard of morality, but that judges alone must be looked to as bulwarks of strength in those regards; and second, they may have a tendency to inject into the deliberations of juries a false quantity, or extraneous consideration; for, the jurors, who should be at all times free to decide according to the evidence and the instructions as to the law, and pursuant to their beliefs as to the weight of the testimony and the credibility of the witnesses, may, instead, be unconsciously influenced by consideration—in addition to whether the verdict about to be rendered is correct and just—of whether it may invoke the hostility of and verbal pyrotechnics by the judge, who, in reality, after the issue of guilt or innocence, and the place of the place of imprisonment, have been submitted to the jury, has no more to do with the decision thereof, so far as changing the place of imprisonment or increasing the punishment are concerned, than the clerk, or the bailiff, or the attorneys engaged in the trial of the case.

SHARPLESS WALKER.
P. S. The preceding communication is written and submitted "by request" of some attorneys, and of some jurors or persons representing them. While at first declining, yet later, upon requests being renewed, and upon further consideration, I concluded that the real reasons for declining, in the first instance, were incompatible with a traditionally independent, courageous and self-respecting profession, and thereupon agreed to write a few thoughts, with the foregoing result.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

BUYERS AND BUILDERS

Everybody, from radical politician to reactionary business man, now knows that buying power must be spread more and more widely if American prosperity is to be made real and stable.

That is not the whole story, but it is something without which no story can be complete, and without which not all the other measures in the world can stabilize the national economy.

And there are some kinds of buying power that will not do the trick save for a passing phase of emergency.

We must lift the mass living standard.

That means that the buyers must also be builders, workers, makers of goods and services, not men and women on the sidelines of productive enterprise.

The government has gone manfully at the job of spreading buying power even when enterprise has been lagging.

There is today a good-sized army of Americans into whose hands money has been put with which to buy goods and services, Americans who nevertheless are not themselves producing goods and services.

These are the beneficiaries of PWA and WPA and so on.

These are on the government payroll just as soldiers are on the government payroll in wartime.

These can purchase goods, but they are not producing goods.

Everyone knows that a vast army in wartime does, by spreading its money and creating the necessity for governmental spending of money, create the illusion of prosperity. That is part of our situation now—a large element of false prosperity and a large army of spending non-producers.

The whole nation must be brought back to normal production and buying power spread through enterprise rather than subsidy.

OUR CHILDREN

BY ANGELO PATRI

THE HIGHER THE FEWER

A teacher knows that out of the 50 children who enter the first grade only a few will be graduated from college. A great host fall out between that first grade and the last class in the higher school. The higher they go the fewer their numbers until at last one stands alone on the heights and we save a master.

The great number of parents covet that high, lone place for their own children, each for his own. Some of them are keenly disappointed when their son or daughter does not reach that honorable place, and they allow themselves to reproach the child. Nothing could be more futile, more senseless, than that attitude.

In each class, of whatever sort or grade, there can be drawn a curve of achievement. At one end there will be a few that must stay on the first level, at the other end, a few that will rise very high. In the middle, very close together, only the scattered ones at each end break the steady rhythm of this group. They are the common children of the common class, and to my teacherly mind, greatly to be cherished.

Out of the lowest group one may rise, but he will not rise far and his services to the community will not count for much. Out of the highest group there may come a leader, and his services may be valuable to the community. The odds are in his favor. But, in that great middle group there are workers who will sustain the nation, workers who will carry the burden of trial and endure life's hardships triumphantly and rear healthy children to carry on after them. And leaders will not be wanting in that group when occasion rises. Here are the coming people, those who are to count most in the years just ahead. Why not honor them occasionally?

The top man is to be honored, of course. He is an inspiration and sets a mark for the others, but he is not the only one to be so praised. Give honor to those who are making good marks, passing their tests, earning their letters and their medals once in a while. Give them a cheer to lighten their
